CROTHERS, George Edward, lawyer; b. in Iowa, May 27, 1870; s. John and Margaret Jane (Fair) C.; attd. pub. schs. of Ia.; grad. San Jose (Calif.) high sch., 1891; A.B., Stanford U., 1895, A.M., 1896. Admitted to Calif. bar, 1896, and formed partnership with brother, Thomas G. Crothers; was soon retained as one of three attorneys of record for the executors and trustees in the famous litigation in defense of the eighteen million dollar Fair trust and estate, as to both of which he made the closing arguments after years of litigation; was in the meantime retained by Mrs. Leland Stanford as sole active trustee of Stanford University, to write a constitutional amendment to reduce the tax burden upon the University and permit her to convey to the University a quarter interest in the Southern Pacific Company and other taxable securities which, if taxed, as the law required, would absorb more than the entire University income and force a sacrifice sale. Owing to defects in the Enabling Act, Founding and Supplementary Grants and attempted amendments to the University trusts, made without or against proper legal advice he found it necessary to broaden scope of proposed constitutional amendment, to prepare and cause to be passed it and several acts of the Legislature, revise the trusts and confirm or eliminate illegal provisions in the founding and endowment grants, and prepare new endowment grants upon trusts so validated; to grant corporate and other essential powers to the trustees, provide for and permit the resignation of all powers of Mrs. Stanford as surviving founder and the immediate succession of the trustees to power as such, and to create a special proceeding under which all of his work and the competency of the Stanfords and the validity and legal effect of all the grants, trusts, corporate powers, amendments, confirmatory conveyances, and Mrs. Stanford's resignation and surrender of all powers over and legal interest in the University and its endowment, were determined by judicial decree; and finally he drafted Will under which Stanford University was made residuary beneficiary of Mrs. Stanford's estate (which remained unchanged except for the purpose of replacing the name of an executor omitted on account of ill health), thereby permitting the subsequent preparation by him as attorney for the trustees of the residuary clause in the decree of distribution under which the University can claim title to the entire Stanford estate not specifically disposed of to others, regardless of the legality of other Stanford grants or gifts to the University; all of which was done without one dollar of compensation. Subsequently he acted as sole trustee during Mrs. Stanford's lifetime and conveyed to the University upon her death, several millions in securities and acted as attorney for the trustees in settling her estate, waiving tens of thousands of legal fees fixed by law in such cases, and charging therefor only the same fee as that fixed for each attorney for the executors of her estate. March 23, 1911, married Elizabeth Mills, who died August 20, 1920; appointed Judge of the Superior Court in San Francisco, August 12, 1913; elected November 3, 1915, to succeed himself for terms 1915-21; served as Presiding Judge of the Superior Courts, 1919; re-entered active practice January, 1921; treasurer of Legal Aid Society of San Francisco, 1926-1928; Vice-President, Western States Life Insurance Company; life member American Law Institute and local State and National Bar Associations; member American Historical Association, American Political Science Association, National Municipal League, Seismological Society of America; student of international relations; first graduate of Stanford University to serve ten-year term as a trustee; for ten years Chairman of San Francisco State Normal School Board to date of abolition of all such boards; life trustee of Stanford Kindergarten Trust; member Masonic Fraternity, 32°, and Knight Templar; member of following Clubs: University, Pacific Union, Stanford Faculty, Press, Commonwealth, Commercial, Menlo Country, and Monterey Peninsula Country Club and Schoolmasters of California; Republican; was chairman of Independent Republicans of San Francisco and later of Republican County Committee from 1909 to 1913, when appointed to the Bench. Mr. Hunt's father was Attorney General of Louisiana and Judge of the Court of Claims under President Hayes, and was appointed Secretary of the Navy by President Garfield, and Minister to Russia by President Arthur. Mr. Hunt graduated from Yale at the age of nineteen, and during his university years was room and class mate of John Hayes Hammond. He began his active career in connection with the public parks of New York City, and in 1878 was appointed City Engineer of Fargo, North Dakota. In Dakota he won an early reputation for his work in surveying and bridge building, and in 1888 he moved to San Francisco, where he won distinction by converting the Harbor Commission to his plan for the adoption of a cofferdam system of laying concrete foundations at the foot of Market Street. Mr. Hunt contributed to the literature of his profession in a substantial manner, and both by his work in dam building for the Turlock and Modesto Irrigation districts, and by his appointment as expert in the settlement of claims for harbor improvements at San Pedro and Santa Monica under the jurisdiction of the congressional committee, demonstrated his place in his profession. From 1893 he was a lecturer in the Engineering Department of Stanford University, and was a member of the Technical Society of Engineers, the American Society of Engineers and the University Club of S.F. Mrs. Randall Hunt, who is a member of the Town & Country Club, resides at 2335 Pacific Ave., San Francisco.

BELGRANO, Francesco Nicolino, banker (deceased 1928); b. Sassari, Sardinia, Italy, Jan. 24, 1853; s. Giovanni Battista and Caterine (Tiscornia) B.; ed. pub. schs., Sassari and Chiavari, Genoa; tech. schs., Chiavari; m. Emilia A. Cavagnaro, of Hornitos, Mariposa Co., Calif., Aug. 15, 1894; children — Frank Nicholas, Carlo Augusto (dec.). The forefathers of Mr. Belgrano were merchants and navigators and prominent residents of Oneglia, Genoa, Italy. The Belgranos were pioneers of South America, and in 1730 a member of the family was appointed Governor and Royal Officer of the City and County of Buenos Aires. His son, General Manuel Belgrano, was an outstanding hero of the Argentine Independence, and created the first flag of the Argentine Republic. Before coming to America, Mr. Belgrano served in the Italian army from 1873 to 1876, being Corporal Major of General Staff, under General Bocca. Arriving in San Francisco in the fall of 1876, he moved to Los Angeles later in the year, and afterwards went to San Diego, where he remained for about a year. From San Diego he moved to Tucson, Arizona, and later to Tombstone, where he became one of the leading citizens, and where he received his citizenship papers on Nov. 20, 1882. In 1883 he returned to Los Angeles, and for the next ten years he was engaged in commercial activities, until, in 1893, in association with J. F. Fugazi, he founded the Columbus Savings & Loan Society. This organization, the oldest Italian banking institution in the West, was sold to I. H. Hellman. On Nov. 15, 1906, Mr. Belgrano and Mr. Fugazi started the Banca Operaia Italiana Fugazi, of which Mr. Belgrano became vice-president and cashier, and at the death of Mr. Fugazi in June, 1916, he was elected president. He retained the office of president until the bank merged with the United Security Bank, which later became the Bank of America of California, and of which he was vice-chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Belgrano was a gifted orator, and during the World War was an energetic and prominent "Four Minute Man." He was the founder, and for many years president, of the Comitato di Soccorso Italiano, the Patronato Emigranti Italiani, and the Italian School, the Italian Chamber of Commerce and the Dante Alighieri Post of San Francisco, and was the organizer of the San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley Scavengers' associations. In his political affiliations he was a Republican, and he was a member of the Commonwealth Club, the Roma Lodge of the Knights of Pythias, Italian Touring Club, Societa Italiana di Mutua Beneficenza, and a Meritorious Member of the Italian Legion of World War Veterans and the order of the Sons of Italy in America. The Italian Government honored Mr. Belgrano's work on behalf of the Italian people by conferring upon him the title of Commedatore della Corona d'Italia, having earlier given him the honor of Cavaliere Ufficiale della Corona d'Italia. He was a member of the Roman Catholic church, and devoted his leisure to pen sketching in water colors and to Americanization work in the Italian colony. Mr. Belgrano is survived by his son, Frank Nicholas, who is now vice-president and comptroller of the Bank of America of California, and by his widow, Mrs. Emilia A. Cavagnaro, who resides at 1132 7th Ave., Oakland.

CASLER, Mrs. Florence C., builder; b. Sherk's, Ont., Can.; d. Hugh and Harriet (Rice) Sherk; ed. pub. schs.; m. John H. Casler, of Buffalo, N.Y.; children—Grace (Mrs. McInerny), Ruth H. Mrs. Casler's history reads like a book. Beginning her career in large scale operations with the development of a business in Buffalo, N.Y., devoted to the installation of plumbing and heating arrangements, she transferred her activities to Los Angeles in 1912, where she entered the construction business. In addition to controlling and managing the Allied Crafts Building, the Graphic Arts Building, the Lloyd & Casler Building, the Printing Center Building, The Textile Center Building, the Press Building and the Los Angeles Furniture Exchange, Mrs. Casler is president of the Casler Construction Co., of which her two daughters are directors. She was the first woman director of a bank in Los Angeles, having formerly been a director of the Peoples' National Bank of Los Angeles, and is now a director of the Pico Street Association, a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Zonta Club and other progressive and social institutions. Mrs. Casler devotes her capital, ability and dynamic energy to the building business, not so much from the point of profits as from an inherent feeling of benefiting her fellowmen by furnishing employment at good wages to a large army of workers. A large part of the top floor of the new Press Building, where the offices of the Casler Construction Co. are located, has been furnished as a recreation center for the tenants and employes of the building, and worthily reflects the broad spirit which animates every act of Mrs. Casler's life. STEINMAN, Bernard Ulmer, hotelman, financier (deceased); b. Cologne, Germany, 1847; m. Fannie Sachs, of Cincinnati, O., 1877; children—Irving I. (dec.), Henrietta (Mrs. Arthur Allen Frank), Lillian (Mrs. Max Samuel), Ulmer (dec.). Mr. Steinman was only nine months old when he arrived in the United States, and at the age of eleven years he came via the Isthmus of Panama from New York to California unaccompanied, beginning his career in Sacramento under circumstances that gave but little promise of his ultimate rise to the highest position in its civic life. He had the good fortune to become a protege of Leland Stanford at an early age, and it was at Mr. Steinman's suggestion that Mr. Stanford became a candidate for the United States Senate. For a number of years Mr. Steinman was the proprietor of the Sacramento Depot Hotel, and was also president of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank, of Sacramento, and of the Sacramento Gas & Electric Company. After being twice elected supervisor of the City and County of Sacramento, he served two terms as mayor of the state capital. Mr. Steinman was affiliated with the Masonic fraternity, and was a staunch adherent of the Republican party. He was a charter member of the Sutter Club of Sacramento and a member of the Union League Club of San Francisco. As an adherent of the Jewish faith, he was an influential leader of Temple Emanu-El, the first Jewish Church in San Francisco. After his retirement from active business, Mr. Steinman traveled for a year in Europe, and upon his return to California he established his residence in San Francisco, where he passed the remainder of his years. In addition to his two daughters, he is survived by his widow, who resides at 15 Presidio Terrace, San Francisco.

SAMUEL, Lillian Steinman (Mrs. Max Samuel), clubwoman; b. Sacramento, Calif.; d. Bernard Ulmer and Fannie (Sachs) Steinman; m. Max Samuel, of San Francisco, 1915; children—Bernard Ulmer, Frances Maxine. Mrs. Samuel is the daughter of one of California's most outstanding pioneers, Bernard Ulmer Steinman, friend of Leland Stanford and twice mayor of Sacramento. Mr. Steinman's biography is included elsewhere in this book, and, in her support of every movement for civic betterment, Mrs. Samuel worthily carries on the family traditions. She is at all times active in the affairs of the various Jewish charities, and is also identified with the San Francisco Community Chest in a prominent manner. In addition to her membership in the California Club and the Western Women's Club, both of San Francisco, she is a member of the Council of Jewish Women and of the Hadassah. Mrs. Samuel is a supporter of the Republican party, and takes a keen personal interest in the political life of the city and the state. Mr. Samuel is a real estate operator in San Francisco, with offices at 447 Sutter St. The family home is at 266 Pacheco St., San Francisco.

ANTHONY, James, journalist (deceased 1876); b. Greencastle, Pa., Jan. 6, 1824; s. Henry and Anne (Edgar) A.; m. Mary Josephine Nougues, of Baltimore, Md., and Sacramento, Oct. 23, 1856; children—Mary (Mrs. Herbert Folger), James Morrill (dec.), Joseph Henry (dec.), Alice Maude (dec.), Mabel Ewing, Edith Edgar, Harvey. In 1846 Mr. Anthony became associated with the business department of "The St. Louis Republican," a Whig journal, and here he became a devoted friend and partisan of Henry Clay. When war was declared with Mexico in 1848, he resigned his position to enlist in the O'Fallon Cadets, Company C, and in 1849, following his discharge from the army, he came to California, arriving on the "Humboldt," August 30 of that year. After a year spent in mercantile pursuits in Placer County, Mr. Anthony moved to Sacramento in 1851. The next year, 1852, saw him enter a partnership with Paul Morrill and Henry W. Larkins under the firm name of James Anthony & Co., as owners and publishers of the "Sacramento Union." He was active in the development of this paper until it was sold in February, 1875, when he retired to make his home in San Francisco. Mr. Anthony was one of the leaders of the Republican party in California, and as the directing spirit of his paper he wielded an influence in the growth of the state that is incalculable. When the Civil War broke out, and before that event, he exposed the plans of the secession element and saved California for the Union. During 1864-65, and again in 1868-69, he was vice-president of the Society of California Pioneers, and he was a Royal Arch Mason, his certificate of membership in Sacramento Chapter No. 3 being dated November 17, 1857. His widow, Mrs. Mary J. Anthony, who died on July 22, 1917, was a member of the Colonial Dames of America. Home was in San Francisco.

MHOON, John Bell, lawyer (deceased 1911); b. Tuscumbia, Ala., Feb. 10, 1840; s. Judge William Stanley and Lucinda (Bell) M.; ed. pvt. schs.; grad. Princeton U., 1859, A.M. 1867; m. Martha Ann McKee, of Oakland, Calif.; children — Martha Bell (Mrs. Frederic E. Magee), S. McKee; m. 2nd, Charlotte Kendall Miller, of Calif., Aug. 12, 1891; 1 dau., Charlotte Marjorie (Mrs. Harry H. Fair). In 1861 he enlisted as a private in the Confederate Army, and soon afterwards was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in General Bragg's Pioneers. This was followed by his appointment to the staff of General Marmaduke, with the rank of captain, and later he was attached to General Albert Sydney Johnston's staff with the rank of major. He was Chief Engineer for the District of Arkansas at the close of the Civil War, and took an active part in the successive battles that marked that great conflict, having four horses shot under him while participating in the major engagements. Major Mhoon was counsel for the University of California for thirty years, and in this capacity he rendered invaluable service not only to the university, but also to the entire educational life of California. For many years he was president of the Alumni of Princeton University on the Pacific Coast, and throughout his entire career identified himself with the most progressive elements in the various educational spheres in the West. In his political affiliations he was an adherent of the Democratic party, and the keen analytic qualities which marked his legal career were carried through into his religious beliefs; for in this important sphere of his life he was characterized as a Christian philosopher whose broad vision and deep understanding lent their full influence to his every act and thought. Major Mhoon is survived by his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Kendall Mhoon, who is a daughter of Albert Miller and a granddaughter of Joseph Kendall, a California pioneer of the '49s, and resides at her home, 445 Mountain Ave., Piedmont.

DODGE, George Moore, civil engineer (deceased 1925); b. Burlington, Vt., Aug. 16, 1850; s. Luther Collamer and Lucia Pomeroy (Moore) D.; ed. pub. schs., San Francisco and Oakland; B.Sc. and C.E., U. of Vermont, 1873; m. Sarah Mercy Vilas, of Burlington, Vt., May 24, 1876; children —a son (dec.) and Mabel (Mrs. E. A. Bullis). Upon the termination of his college career, Mr. Dodge engaged in engineering work in Canada, later returning to San Francisco where he became associated with his uncle's wholesale grocery establishment, Dodge-Sweeney & Co. The profession of engineering was his choice, however, and in 1879 he moved to Marin County, California, where he conducted extensive land surveys. During his residence in Marin County he was County Surveyor for several years. A monument to his success is the Mt. Tamalpais Railroad, a route which, on account of the peculiarities of its construction, has won national attention as a distinctive example of engineering skill. Another lasting reminder of his ability is the Corte Madera tunnel on the line of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad in Marin County. Mr. Dodge served as president of the Marin County Building & Loan Assn. for many years, and also was president of the Marin County Abstract & Title Co. at one time. He was a member of the Lambda Iota fraternity, and while not a golf player he held membership in the Marin County Golf & Country Club. Mr. Dodge was a Republican and an active member of the Unitarian Church. He is survived by his daughter and his widow, Mrs. Sarah V. Dodge, whose home is at 615 Belle Ave., San Rafael.

DEWEY, Frederick Hastings, journalist (deceased 1913); b. Nashau, N.H., Nov. 5, 1853; s. Russell Ely and Margaret Shepard (Hastings) D.; grad. Rochester (N.Y.) Mil. Acad., 1870; m. Thyra Ragnhilde Ringstrom, of San Francisco, July 3, 1883; children—Marion R., Constance M., Paul H., Ruth, Clarence R., Blanche C. Mr. Dewey's father was an official of the St. Joseph & Council Bluffs and of the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs railroads. When the family moved to California in 1873, Mr. Dewey accompanied them from Missouri. For several years he was engaged with his parents in ranching near Salinas, but his literary ability secured him an appointment as special writer for the "Chronicle" in San Francisco, and he moved to that city where, in 1879, he joined the staff of the "Call." The following year he became commercial and financial editor of that newspaper, and for the succeeding thirty-three years he managed these departments with ever-growing success. Mr. Dewey was widely known on the Pacific Coast as one of its most talented financial writers, and by his discriminating work during his connection with the "Call" was largely instrumental in raising the status of that paper to its present position. He was an assiduous student of the French language and literature, and was the author of various short stories and special magazine articles. In politics he was affiliated with the Republican party. His intensely religious nature found its channel of expression in his adherence to the Swedenborgians, and for several years prior to his death he was president of the First New Jerusalem Church of San Francisco. He is survived by his six children and by his widow, who resides at 142 Lake St., San Francisco.

CREED, Wigginton Ellis, utility official (deceased); b. Fresno, Calif., Feb. 8, 1877; s. William Henry Ambrose and Georgie (Ellis) C.; ed. pub. schs., Oakland; grad. U. of Calif., 1898; N.Y. Law Sch.; m. Isabel Hooper, of Alameda, Calif., Oct. 15, 1904; children — Stanwood Hooper (dec.), Isabel, Patricia, Elizabeth, Margery. Upon his graduation from the University of California, Mr. Creed became principal of Fresno High School, as part of his aim to finance his legal education. In 1899 he became private secretary to D. O. Mills, of New York, which enabled him to complete his law training at New York Law School. Returning to San Francisco, he became a member of the law firm of Titus, Wright & Creed in 1902, and in 1907 was attorney for the People's Water Company in a rate case against the City of Oakland. In 1914 his father-in-law, Charles Appleton Hooper, died, and Mr. Creed became president of C. A. Hooper & Co., of San Francisco. This led to his becoming president of the Columbia Steel Co., of Pittsburg, Calif., and of the East Bay Water Company in 1916. His success in the latter office resulted in his appointment to the presidency of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in 1920, and, in accepting this, Mr. Creed withdrew from the practice of his profession as a lawyer. In addition to his interest in the Columbia Steel Co. and the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., he was a director of the Wells Fargo Bank & Union Trust Co., the Associated Oil Co. and the East Bay Water Co. For eight years Mr. Creed was a trustee of the California Institute for the Deaf and Blind, and held the same office for Mills College, Oakland. He also served a term as president of the University of California, and was a member of the Board of Regents during that time. Mr. Creed was always active in civic affairs, and was a member of the Pacific-Union, University and Faculty clubs, San Francisco, the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and the Claremont Country (Oakland), Marin County and Diablo Country clubs. He was a Republican and an adherent of the Episcopal Church. Mr. Creed is survived by four daughters and by his widow. Mrs. Isabel Hooper Creed, who resides at 128 Indian Road, Piedmont.

DANFORTH, Edward Everett, accountant, author (deceased 1899); b. Warner, N.H., May 18, 1853; s. Enoch and Melissa Jane (Colby) D.; academic edn., N.H.; m. Emma Louise Emmons, of Oakland, Sept. 1, 1875; 1 dau., Adele Danforth (Mrs. S. R.

Ecclestone); m. 2nd, Alice Spalding Cowles. Mr. Danforth arrived in California about 1870, and as a major in the State Militia under General Dimond he took an active part in the Indian wars of that period, receiving a medal for distinguished conduct. His ability as an accountant was recognized by his appointment to take charge of the auditing of the books and accounts of the city of Los Angeles at a time when its accounting department had developed into a chaotic and irregular state. Following the completion of this commission he was associated with the Los Angeles Fence & Pipe Co. for several years, later engaging in the real estate business and operating his own offices on Broadway, Los Angeles. Mr. Danforth was at one time the editor of an Oakland paper, and was the author of many poems and short stories. He was a member of the Republican party, and was for a number of years attached to the Recorder's office in Oakland under Charles Reed. In his fraternal affiliations he was a Mason, and he was a member of the Methodist Church. In addition to his daughter, Mr. Danforth is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Spalding Danforth, who is active in association and club work and resides at Whitecotton Hotel, Berkeley.

During the World War, Mr. Anderson served in the United States Navy, being accepted for duty in August, 1918, and honorably discharged in October, 1919. Upon his return to civil life, he clerked in his father's clothing store in San Luis Obispo until the opening of the Anderson Hotel, Monterey and Morro Streets, San Luis Obispo, when he became assistant manager of the hotel, remaining at his post there until his death, which occurred after an illness of only five days. Mr. Anderson was an active participant in the affairs of the Republican party, and continued his army affiliations through his membership in the American Legion. He was a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and his interest in the development of his community was attested by the fact that he was a charter member of the San Luis Obispo Rotary Club. As an adherent of the Protestant faith, he added a worthy share to the religious life of the community in which he was born, and to which he gave the full measure of his all-too-short career. He is survived by two sons and his widow, Mrs. Lillian S. Anderson, who is an accompanist and resides at 1014 Rose Avenue, Piedmont.

Charles Peter Weeks

(now U. of Akron); école des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1892-95; m. Beatrice Woodruff, of N.Y. City, Jan. 30, 1923. As a youth, Mr. Weeks studied architecture in the office of Charles Snyder, of Akron, and, following his return from Paris in 1895, began his active career as an architect in the office of "Badgley" in Cleveland, O.

Beatrice W. Weeks

Later he moved to New York, and there he was associated with Joseph P. McHugh & Co. as an interior decorator until 1898. In 1899 he joined the architectural firm of Howard, Caldwell & Morgan, of New York, but in 1901 he moved to San Francisco as head designer for John Galen Howard, architect for the University of California. In 1902, Mr. Weeks formed the partnership of Sutton & Weeks. This was later dissolved, and Mr. Weeks maintained his own offices until 1915, when he formed the partnership of Weeks & Day, of which he was the senior member until his demise. This firm designed some of the best known structures in California, including the Mark Hopkins Hotel and the Don Lee Building, San Francisco. Mr. Weeks won the competition for the California State Capitol alterations and also for the State Library and the State Office Building at Sacramento in 1918. Among his other notable awards was that of first prize for a design for the Parliament Buildings, Australian Capitol Competition, 1924. Mr. Weeks found his recreation in golf and in sketching in water colors. He was a 32° Mason and a Shriner, and a member of the University, Commonwealth, Architectural (past president), and San Francisco Golf clubs, and also held membership in the Society of Beaux Arts Architects and the American Institute of Architects. In his political affiliations he was a Republican. Mr. Weeks is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice W. Weeks, 1000 Mason St., San Francisco.

WEINSTOCK, Harris, merchant (deceased 1922); b. London, England, Sept. 18, 1854; ed. pub. schs. New York; m. Barbara Felsenthal, of San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1878; children—

Alice, Helen, Robert, Walter. Colonel Weinstock, in partnership with his half-brother, David Lubin, gave early evidence of his business acumen by founding the mercantile house of Weinstock, Lubin & Company in San Francisco before he was twenty-one, and while the commercial integrity of this house is in itself an honored memorial to his name, his services to the state and national governments form the most inspiring chapters of his career. In 1887 he was appointed to the Board of Trustees of the State Library of California, and in 1891 was elected to the Board of Trustees of Sacramento. As a member of the State Board of Horticulture, special Labor Commissioner on foreign labor laws and conditions, and in numerous other capacities he gave his broad and impartial abilities to the aid of the state. President Wilson appointed him a member of the Industrial Relations Commission in 1913. He was in a large measure responsible for the establishing of farmers' marketing associations in California, and in other ways aided the agricultural life of the state. As a member of the executive board of the National Civic Federation, as vice-president of the Jewish Publication Society of America and as one of the founders and first president of the Commonwealth Club of California, he played a striking part in innumerable phases of the state's life. He was the author of "Jesus the Jew" and "Strikes and Lockouts" among other articles of note, and his public benefactions include the establishing of the Barbara Weinstock Lectureship on Morals of Trade at the University of California, this lectureship being dedicated to his wife. In addition to his four children, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Weinstock, who resides at Stanford Court Apartments, San Francisco.

JOHNSON, Samuel S., lumberman (deceased 1905); b. St. Thomas, Elgin County, Ont., Sept. 5, 1857; s. William Benjamin and Margaret (Lucas) Johnson; ed. pub. schs. and in bus. coll.; m. Emma A. Gibbs, of Muskegon, Mich., July 4, 1879; children —Samuel Orie, William Paul (dec.). Mr. Johnson began his career in the lumber industry in Muskegon, Michigan, and while yet a young man he rose to the position of president and general manager of the Johnson Lumber Company, Barnum, Michigan, and also held the same position with the Johnson, Wentworth Company at Cloquet, Minnesota. In 1903, following the purchase of the holdings of the Scott, Van Arsdale Lumber Co., by a group of eastern capitalists, Mr. Johnson disposed of his extensive holdings in Minnesota, and moved to California to take full charge of Scott, Van Arsdale properties, which were located in the Mt. Shasta territory and are now known as the McCloud River Lumber Company. He became a stockholder, president and general manager of the California company, and in 1904 the position of plant manager was taken over by his son, Samuel Orie Johnson, who had also made lumber his life study. Mr. Johnson was a supporter of the Republican party, and was active in political life in Minnesota. He was an Episcopalian, but gave generously to every religious movement. In his fraternal affiliations he was a member of the Masonic Order, a Knight Templar and a Shriner, and was an active worker in all the affairs of the fraternity. His widow who is active in church, charity and club work, now resides at 2410 Warring St., Berkeley.

HOOPER, Charles Appleton, lumberman (deceased 1914); b. Bangor, Maine, Mar. 14, 1843; s. John and Martha Stanwood (Perry) H.; grad. Hawes Gram. Sch., 1858; attd. English High Sch., Boston, 1 yr.; m. Ida Geneva Snow, of Brownsville, Me., June 7, 1880; children—Isabel Martha (Mrs. Wigginton Ellis Creed), Idolene Snow (Mrs. Winfield Hale). Entering the business world as a clerk in the employ of his uncle, William S. Perry, he rose to be yard superintendent of his uncle's lumber yard in Boston. At the age of 18 he enlisted in the 43rd Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, and was discharged in 1863 after serving a year in the Civil War.

In that year he joined his father at the Plymouth Mine, Amador Co., California; but in 1865 he moved to San Francisco, where he established the lumber firm of C. A. Hooper & Co., in which he remained active for many years. In 1867 he formed the partnership of Hooper & Lockerman; but in 1869 he bought out Mr. Lockerman's interests, and resumed business with his brother, William Hooper. Mr. Hooper organized many lumber companies. In the early 70s, with a number of associates, he formed the Sacramento Lumber Co., of which he became president. In 1881 he organized the L. W. Blim Co., of Arizona, and bought out the Russ Lumber & Milling Co., of San Diego, and reorganized it. Other companies successively formed were the Southern California Lumber Co., the Oregon & California Lumber Co., the Redwood Manufacturers Co., and, in 1907, the Big Lagoon Lumber Co. Among other achievements he was largely responsible for the development of the town of Pittsburg, now the flourishing steel center of California. Mr. Hooper was a member of the Union League and the Pacific-Union clubs of San Francisco. His maternal grandfather, John Perry Jr., was the founder of the first Sunday School in the United States, at Brunswick, Me., in 1811. A memorial window in the church is a memorial to his memory. On the Stanwood side of the family, Charles A. Hooper's great-grandfather gave to Bowdoin College some of the ground upon which that famous old school now stands. Home was in Alameda.

FORBES, Armitage S. C., manufacturer (deceased 1928); b. of English parents at Bagni di Lucca, Italy, June 17, 1857; s. Edward (D.D.) and Juniana Anne (Latter) F.; ed. pvt. schs.; A.B., Trinity Coll., Cambridge, Eng., 1881; m. Harrye R. P. Smith, of Hopewell, Pa., and Wichita, Kan., Feb. 10, 1886. Mr. Forbes' first visit to America was undertaken as a vacation from college studies. While in Denver he became interested in cattle-raising, and later returned to this country and successfully engaged in the business for some time before again returning to England. He came to America again, and after taking out naturalization papers, entered the cattle business on a large scale in company with William Malally; but a change of Government administrations compelled him to dispose of his interests and engage in manufacturing and mining. He purchased the Pacific Soda Works at Tacoma, Wash., and soon monopolized the soda business of the Northwest and Alaska. In 1891 Mr. Forbes was called back to England on account of his mother's failing health. Arriving in London, he formed the European Blair Camera Co., and built a factory for the manufacture of rollable films. After the death of his mother he sold the camera business to Eastman, and he and Mrs. Forbes returned to this country, coming direct to Los Angeles, arriving on Feb. 10, 1895. He purchased an orange ranch near Glendora and a gold mine in Kern County, and also engaged in gypsum mining, his company supplying the gypsum used in making the cement for the construction of the Owens River Aqueduct and much of the State Highway. His manufacturing included the making of Mission souvenirs and novelties, and he was the only bell manufacturer west of the Mississippi. For fourteen years Mr. Forbes was president of El Camino Real Association, and personally supervised the erection of over 400 Mission Bell guide posts that mark El Camino Real, the road to the Missions, being ever active in the preservation and restoration of the California Missions and other historic landmarks of this state. He was an expert photographer, and won many prizes and high honor in the salons of London, New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Mr. Forbes found his outdoor recreation in fishing, and was a nationally known collector of objets d'art. In addition to his membership in the Blue Lodge and Scottish Rite Masonic bodies, he was a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles City Club, Sea Breeze Club, Frazier Mt. Rod & Reel Club, and the Historical Society of Southern California. He was a supporter of the Republican party and an adherent of the Episcopal Church. Mr. Forbes passed away on April 3, 1928, while on a business trip to Monterey, a place consecrated by all Californians for its associations with Padre Junipero Serra, the beloved Father of the Missions. GRAY, John Roe, consulting engr. (deceased 1927); b. Canton, Miss., Aug. 27, 1882; s. John William and Virginia (Thraillkill) G.; ed. pub. schs., Louisiana; m. Edwina Watson, of Natchitoches, La., Feb. 15, 1904; children — Saidee, John Roe. Mr. Gray began his active career as a mechanic in the Peoples' Rice Mill, Crowley, La. in 1898, and his ability was such that in 1903 he was made superintendent of the Louisiana Irrigation & Mill Co. In 1912 the rice mills of Louisiana and Texas were consolidated, and Mr. Gray was made superintendent of the Louisiana State Rice Milling Co. Mr. Kaplan, who had been Mr. Gray's first employer, re-entered the rice milling field in 1916, and secured Mr. Gray's services to re-build and operate mills at Crowley, Iota and Gueydan, La. These projects occupied his attention until 1919, when he moved to California, locating in San Francisco in May of that year. Following the founding of his company, John R. Gray Inc., his first engineering project was for Rosenburg Brothers & Co., and subsequent to his establishment of offices in Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., he gained an international reputation in the designing, building and operating of grain-cleaning and storage plants. Mr. Gray was non-sectarian in his religious beliefs and a Democrat in his political affiliations. He was a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and also of the Elks Club of Crowley, La., and the Lions Service Club of San Francisco. His principal recreation was found in music, and his generous support of charities, especially those affecting the welfare of children, worthily showed the inherent fineness of his lovable nature. His widow, Mrs. Edwina Watson Gray, now resides at 695 35th Ave., San Francisco.

PRICE, J. Howard, shipbuilder (deceased 1929); b. Wales, May 11, 1879; s. Daniel and Mary (Griffith) P.; m. Genevieve McNaughton; 1 son, Horace. Mr. Price began his active career in the shipbuilding business in the West in 1900, when he became identified with the Dickey shipyards, Oakland. In 1902, as superintendent of that plant, he supervised the construction of the first two Key Route ferry boats for San Francisco Bay. Following his success in Oakland, he opened a shipyard of his own at Eureka in 1904, and soon afterwards expanded his business to include plants at Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B.C. During the World War he was chairman of the designing committee for the United States shipping board in the northwest. At the close of the war he returned to Oakland as an official and partner in the Hanlon Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co., and at the time of his retirement in 1927 he was vice-president and part owner of the Hanlon Co. In addition to his connections with the shipbuilding industry of Oakland, he had large real estate interests in that city. Mr. Price is survived by his son Horace, who is a student at the University of California, and by his widow, Mrs. Genevieve McNaughton Price, who resides at 835 Brooklyn Ave., Oakland.

MAJORS, Alexander, transportation pioneer (deceased 1900); b. near Franklin, Ky., Oct. 4, 1814; m. 1833; seven children, of whom two survive, one being Judge Greene Majors, of Piedmont, Calif.; m. 2nd, Susan Dudley Wetzel, of Independence, Mo.; four children, of whom three survive, one being Mrs. Elinor Carlisle, of San Francisco. In 1848 Mr. Majors entered the freighting business, and this venture was the foundation of the famous Pony Express which linked the far-flung territories of the United States before the trans-continental railroads were in active service. Beginning with six wagons and twelve oxen to the wagon and a few reserve animals, he established his first route along the old Santa Fe trail into New Mexico, a distance of 800 miles from his headquarters. This business expanded until in 1858, when he was operating it with two partners under the name of Russell, Majors & Waddell, the freight hauled into Utah for government use amounted to over 16,000,000 pounds, requiring 3,500 wagons and 45,000 oxen in its transportation over the 1,200 miles of virgin territory that comprised their route. The Pony Express from St. Joseph to Sacramento was operated in conjunction with the freight business, and among the records established was that of the carrying of President Lincoln's inaugural address of March 4, 1861, which was expressed from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento in seven days and seventeen hours, over a distance of about 2,000 miles. Memorials at St. Joseph and Sacramento mark the two terminals of that now historic route, and commemorate the achievements of one of the most outstanding figures in the history of Western civilization. His daughter, Elinor Majors Carlisle, resides at 2455 Leavenworth St., San Francisco.

CAPWELL, Harris Cebert, merchant (deceased 1929); b. Grand Lodge, Mich., 1858; ed. pub. schs. and at U. of Mich., Ann Arbor; married; children — Cebert, Dorothy (Mrs. Cockcroft), Phyllis (Mrs. Seydell). H. C. Capwell, a descendant of revolutionary stock, brought the pioneer spirit of his ancestors to California as one of his chief assets. Following a period as a druggist and, later, as a salesman for a San Francisco drygoods house, he established himself in business in the first Capwell store, "The Lace House", at Tenth and Washington streets, Oakland, in 1889. From this small beginning developed the H. C. Capwell Company department store, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the West. The vision and energy which brought him success in the mercantile business also were turned into other lines. He was president of the Security Bank & Trust Co., later sold to the Bank of Italy, and was also a director of the Oakland Bank and the Oakland Title Insurance Co. Fraternally he was affiliated with Live Oak Lodge of Masons, the Knights Templar, Knights of Constantine and Oakland lodge of Elks, of which he was Past Exalted Ruler. He was a director and California state president of the Sons of the American Revolution, member of the Lions Club, director of the Athens Athletic Club, president of the Orinda Country Club, and a member of the Claremont and Santa Cruz Country clubs, the Athenian-Nile and the Bohemian clubs. His civic activity was evidenced by his presidency of the Oakland Board of Trade, and he was one of the organizers of the Merchants' Exchange and the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, serving as president of the latter organization. He was also one of the original members of the Oakland Port commission, treasurer of the Oakland Community Chest and a leader in East Bay charity work. In addition to his son and two daughters, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. H. C. Capwell, who resides at 145 Kelton Court, Piedmont.

mercial world was one of the most spectacular in the history of the Pacific Coast. In addition to ownership of large areas of redwood forest-lands, he controlled a fleet of steam schooners and sailing vessels in the interest of his lumber business, and established an international trade that carried the name of Hanify to every quarter of the globe. He was one of the civic leaders of San Francisco, and, as a yachtsman, climaxed his many successes in that sport by winning the King George Cup during the Panama-Pacific Exposition. His tragic death in a yachting accident on San Francisco Bay deprived California of one whose widespread charities and business integrity were leading factors in the development of California for many years. Member of S.F. Chamber of Commerce (com. of appeals). Clubs: Pacific Union, Bohemian, Olympic, Yacht, Corinthian Yacht, all S.F. Mr. Hanify is survived by his widow, Mrs. John R. Mr. Baumberger moved to California in 1868, and for a time was associated with an architect in San Francisco, but building activities were at a low ebb at that period, and he secured a position as a bookkeeper with one of the larger commission houses of the city. He remained in that capacity for several years until he was appointed manager of a large flour mill at Salinas, California. In this latter position he met with great success due to close attention to every detail and his knowledge of accountancy. Later he became associated with the San Francisco Bay salt industry, and established two plants. At the time of his death he was owner and manager of the Commercial Salt Co., of Mt. Eden and San Francisco. Mr. Baumberger confined his social affiliations to membership in the Swiss Relief Society, and devoted his leisure time to gardening, reading, chess and designing plans for the expansion of his industry. He was an adherent of the Protestant faith, and at all times took a keen interest in the civic life of his community. In addition to his seven children, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. D. Baumberger, who resides at 134 26th Avenue, San Francisco.

LINDGREN, Axel Frederick, bldg. contractor (deceased 1929); b. Sweden, 1864; ed. pub. schs., Sweden. Married; children—Victor, Charles, Axel Frederick, Louise. The career of Axel Frederick Lindgren is an admirable illustration of the possibilities that America offers to those who have the ability to take advantage of its never-ending expansion. He arrived in New York at the age of fourteen with $1 as his entire visible capital. The fact that he was without friends and unacquainted with the English language offered no obstacle to the lad who was to become one of the foremost building contractors of the West. After a period as carpenter's helper in New York, he made his way to Bakersfield, California, where he learned the bricklayer's trade, and where he established his first home. He founded a contracting business in Bakersfield, nursed it to success, and then brought his experience to San Francisco. The rest of his career is history in California. As president of Lindgren & Swinerton Inc. at the time of his demise he had to his credit the erection of Camp Fremont, at Menlo Park, during the World War, and also such well-known San Francisco buildings as the Telephone Building, Standard Oil Building, Hunter-Dulin Building, Public Library, Civic Auditorium, Sir Francis Drake Hotel. Lindgren & Swinerton also built the Mattei Building in Fresno and constructed all the Pacific Coast plants of the American Can Company. Mr. Lindgren was for several years the president of the General Contractors' Association, and was a member of Parnassus Lodge 338, F. & A.M., of Islam Temple of the Shrine, the Swedish Club, the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco. He is survived by his four children and by his widow, who resides at 2 De Soto Street, Ingleside Terrace, San Francisco.

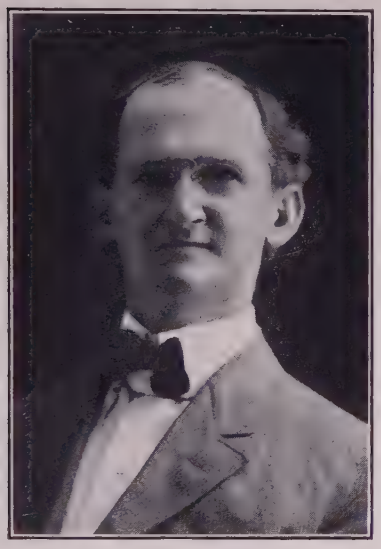
Mr. Childs was a grandson of Captain Increase Childs, soldier in the French and English wars and a captain in the War of the Revolution. His mother was a descendant of John Howland, of Mayflower and Pilgrim Colony fame. He was admitted to the practice of the law in New York City in 1864, and was a member of the law firm of Hull & Childs from 1868 to 1870, and of the firm of Childs & Hull from 1871 until 1895. From 1875 until 1885 he was vice-president and a director of the Leaw Telegraph & Telephone Co. This company, of which Mr. Childs was one of the founders, first invented and used the telephone exchange system for electrical intercommunication. He was also the attorney for several corporations in telephone arbitrations with the Metropolitan Co., and for the Elevated Railroad of New York, and was receiver and trustee in the matters of several important estates. At one time he was offered the judgeship of Bergen County, N.Y., but was prevented through the pressure of private business. He retired from active practice of his profession and moved to California in 1918. Mr. Childs was an ardent collector of rare books and engravings, and was a patron of music. His recreation was golf, and he was the winner of several trophies. Included among his social affiliations was membership in the University Club of New York, in which he was numbered among one of first twenty-five members. He was also an active member of the Order of Runnemede from its inception, and was a member of the Yale Club, the Lawyers' Club, Psi Upsilon fraternity and the Berkshire Golf Club. PLEASANTS, John Stephen, cotton mfr. (deceased 1923); b. High Point, N.C., Apr. 17, 1872; s. John Landis and Cornelia (Lawrence) P.; ed. pvt. tutors; m. Lucile Randolph Gibson, of West Point and Kosciusko, Miss., Oct. 14, 1902; 1 son, John Gibson. When 18 years of age, Mr. Pleasants went to New England, where he spent five years in gaining practical experience in cotton manufacturing under the supervision of a family friend, C. R.



Makepeace, of Providence, R.I. In 1895 he became associated with Stuart W. Cramer, of Charlotte, N.C., superintending equipment of new cotton mills in various sections of the South, and remained in that association until 1902, when he became general manager of the Kosciusko, Mississippi, Cotton Mills. This engaged his attention until 1904 when he was appointed general manager and vice-president of the cotton mills at Laurel, Miss., where he remained until 1920, when ill health necessitated his moving to California. In addition to being a director of the Laurel Cotton Mills, he was also a director of the Interstate Wholesale Grocers Inc., of New Orleans, and was a charter member, director and vice-president of the Rotary Club of Laurel, a member of the Cotton Manufacturers' Assn., trustee of the Laurel Board of Education, 1918-20, and held membership in the Tallahoma Social Club of Laurel, the Jones County Tennis Club and the Laurel Country Club. Following his arrival in Los Angeles in 1920, Mr. Pleasants became interested in personal investments in California real estate, stocks and bonds, while his services were frequently in demand to unofficially give expert advice to persons and companies interested in developing the textile industry in this State. During the World War, he served as a Four-Minute speaker, and he did much to improve cotton-mill conditions for his employes by establishing numerous social-service, educational and religious institutions. He was an adherent of the Democratic party, and his religious affiliations were centered in the Baptist Church, of which he was a lifelong member, and which he generously supported. Mr. Pleasant's son, John Gibson Pleasants, graduated from the University of Southern California in 1929 with the honor of Magna Cum Laude in electrical engineering. He was elected to Phi Kappa Phi and Eta Kappa Nu, national honor fraternities, and was corresponding secretary for Eta Kappa Nu for two years, and president of Kappa Alpha order during his senior year. Among his university honors and associations were: chairman of Men's Council; member of Advisory Committee of Interfraternity Council; chairman of committee which revised rushing rules of fraternities; chairman of committee which abolished "hell week" at the University of Southern California; received the Gilbert Dunstan Award and Eta Kappa Nu Alumni Award given annually to the outstanding graduating electrical engineer. J. G. Pleasants has been admitted to the California Institute of Technology for graduate work towards his Master's Degree. In addition to his son, John Stephen Pleasants is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucile Gibson Pleasants, who, like her late husband, is a descendant of some of the most distinguished families in American history. She is active in musical and club circles, and resides at 1186 Crenshaw Blvd., Los Angeles.

signal success in these spheres, and maintained offices in the Standard Oil Building, Tenth and Hope streets, Los Angeles, until his death on March 14, 1927. Mr. Vollmer was prominent in financial circles in Los Angeles, and was a director of the Bank of Italy The collecting of rare coins was his principal hobby, but he was active in the social life of his community, and was a member of the California and the Los Angeles Athletic clubs in Los Angeles, and the Gables club, Santa Monica. In his political affiliations he was a Republican, and as a member of the Episcopal Church he was active in the religious life of the city. His passing deprived California of one of its most constructive citizens as he was known as an able, brilliant and resourceful man whose moral code of life was maintained on an exceptionally high plane. The record of his career is the record of worthy, upright living, of strict adherence to high personal standards, of talents and powers used for worthy ends, and he endeared himself to all who knew him by the fine qualities of his manhood, particularly in his sincerity of purpose and by that pronounced engagingness of demeanor which was ever present throughout his active career. Mr. Vollmer is survived by his two daughters and by his widow, who resides at Country Club Manor, 316 N. Rossmore Ave., Los Angeles.

HERRIN, William Franklin, lawyer (deceased 1927); b. near Jacksonville, Ore., Aug. 7, 1854; s. John Stevenson and Nancy Katherine (Walker) Herrin; B.Sc., Ore. State Agrl. Coll., Corvallis, Ore., 1873; LL.B., Cumberland U., Tennessee, 1875; m. Annie S. Van Clief, of San Francisco, Apr. 7, 1881, (dec.); children—Katherine, Alice, William. Upon graduation from college, Mr. Herrin entered the law offices of Stewart & Greathouse, San Francisco, as a law clerk. Shortly after this, the partnership was dissolved, and the firm of Stewart, Van Clief & Herrin was formed. This partnership was composed of William M. Stewart, former U.S. senator from Nevada, Judge Peter Van Clief and William F. Herrin. With the subsequent retirement of Judge Van Clief the firm became Stewart & Herrin. During the period of Mr. Herrin's partnership with Senator Stewart they conducted the celebrated Sharon case, representing William E. Sharon, picturesque and prominent San Franciscan and capitalist of the 80's, the conduct of whose case by Mr. Herrin brought him into prominence as one of the leading members of the San Francisco bar. The circumstances of this famous case which served to bring Mr. Herrin to the forefront of the legal profession concerned Sarah Althea Hill, a bright and attractive young woman from Missouri who asserted that she had a written contract of marriage with Mr. Sharon who then was a man of more than sixty years of age. Mr. Sharon claimed to be a resident of Nevada, which gave the Circuit Court of the United States jurisdiction, Miss Hill being a resident of California. Sharon brought suit to set aside the alleged contract. Immediately thereafter, Miss Hill brought suit for divorce in the State Court, demanding her rights as a wife and her share of the common property, as by the law of California the property acquired during the marriage belonged to the husband and wife in equal parts. The noted San Francisco attorney, William H. L. Barnes was applied to by Miss Hill to act as her attorney, a fact afterward brought out in the evidence. General Barnes, as he was called (having served in the militia) is said to have telephoned to Mr. Sharon proposing to defend him against Miss Hill. Mr. Sharon employed the General, and thereafter the controversy developed, step by step, into a very notorious affair. Miss Hill had employed George W. Tyler and David S. Terry as her counsel, both of which gentlemen were somewhat aggressive and of undoubted courage. The proceedings were followed with intense interest by the public and were given wide publicity by the newspapers. The sympathy of a majority of the people is said to have been with Miss Hill. Judge Sullivan at the conclusion of the trial gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff, Miss Hill, and against the defendant, William E. Sharon, for all she demanded in her complaint. The case which Mr. Sharon had brought in the United States Court still was pending, and as it was commenced first, that court had a prior jurisdiction, and the whole matter still was open for trial before Circuit Judge Sawyer. At this stage of the litigation, Mr. Sharon employed the firm of Stewart & Herrin to take charge of the case in the United States Court, which was an action in equity to set aside the alleged contract of marriage. This action in the Federal Court was decided against Miss Hill and in favor of Mr. Sharon. A sequel to the litigation was the encounter between Justice Field of the United States Supreme Court and Judge Terry who was counsel for Miss Hill in the litigation against Sharon. Judge Field was in California on business and had occasion to stop over at a station on the Southern Pacific Railroad called Lathrop, where an eating house was maintained by the railroad. While Judge Field was eating breakfast, Judge Terry entered the dining room, saw Field, walked up to him and slapped his face. David Neagle, deputy United States marshal, who was a bodyguard for Field, shot and killed Terry. Neagle was arrested and prosecuted by Terry's friends on the charge of murder, but Mr. Herrin, who conducted the proceedings on behalf of Neagle, secured his release on the ground that he had acted in the line of his duty. In 1886, with the decision of Senator Stewart to become a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate and the subsequent dissolving of his partnership with Mr. Herrin, the latter formed a partnership with the late U.S. Senator Francis J. Newlands and the late James M. Allen, the firm being known as Newlands, Allen & Herrin. During his period of association with this firm, Mr. Herrin represented many of the largest interests on the Pacific Coast, including the Bank of California, Spring Valley Water Co., Sharon Estate, San Francisco Gas Co., Omnibus Railroad Co., the Ferries & Cliff House Railroad Co., and others. On July 1, 1893, he was appointed chief counsel of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., and continued with the additional office of vice-president from March, 1910, until his death. Among the close friends of Mr. Herrin were Collis P. Huntington, Governor Leland Stanford, John Muir, the famous California naturalist, and William Keith, noted landscape artist, for Mr. Herrin's social gifts brought him into close relationship not only with the leaders of business, but with men of scientific and artistic attainments. His daughter, Katherine Herrin, resides at 2580 Broadway, San Francisco.

McFADDEN, James, agricultural organizer (deceased 1919); b. Delhi, Delaware Co., N.Y., Sept. 4, 1833; s. John and Effie (Lamont) M.; ed. pub. schs., Delhi; Delhi Academy; m. Jennie Thomson, of Delhi, Nov. 30, 1870; children — Ida Jennie (dec. 1877), Lulu Effie (dec. 1876), Jennie Ethel; 1 dau. by former marriage, Elizabeth A. Mr. McFadden taught school for some time in Delaware County, New York, but in 1864 he moved to California, and in 1874 located in the southern part of Los Angeles county, which later became Orange county. While agriculture was his principal interest from the time of his arrival in California until his death on June 9, 1919, he developed a shipping business which was later known as the Newport Wharf & Lumber Company. His activities in this organization lasted until 1904. The sugar-beet industry around Santa Ana was largely the result of his efforts, and he was one of the organizers of the Southern California Sugar Company, which was founded in 1908, and also of the Santa Ana Co-operative Sugar Company, established in 1912. He was instrumental in the separation of Orange County from Los Angeles County, and was identified with, and helped to organize, many of the industries upon which the existence of Orange County now depends. While Mr. McFadden's political influence was always strong throughout southern California, and although he was active at all times in the councils of the Republican party, he never aspired to the offices of public life for which he was so well equipped in every way. As an active member of the Presbyterian Church, he gave his help to the establishing of many churches throughout the State, while his activity in numerous philanthropic movements, and in such causes as that of the Anti-Saloon League, stamped him as a practical Christian whose code of living will always be honored in the history of the State. In his status as a pioneer and one of the founders of Santa Ana and of Orange County, he always maintained a deep faith in the future of California, and the State owes him an everlasting debt for the part that he took in its upbuilding. He was in fullest measure representative of the outstanding caliber and versatility of the men whose lives constitute the foundation of California's present prestige, and his participation in the active life of the State, from the time of his arrival, gave every assurance that his labors and his abilities would be invaluable factors in its future growth. In his contributions to the development of the commonwealth he created an everlasting monument, for his activities in every period of his life were each distinguished by the same broad vision and unselfish spirit of service toward the advancement of the State to a high plane. In addition to his two daughters, he is survived by his widow, who resides at 1325 Foothill Blvd., Altadena.

In 1879, Mr. Brauer, then a lad of ten, accompanied an uncle who was returning to Tennessee from a visit to Germany, and after driving a general delivery wagon and working at odd jobs to pay his way through the public schools of Somerville, Tenn., procured employment as clerk in a clothing store at Peoria, Ill., where his parents and their other children had located, following their arrival in America five years after Mr. Brauer left home. In April, 1888, he moved to California, and after being a clerk and window-dresser for Jacoby Bros., and working on the staff of Mullen & Bluetts until 1897, he opened a store with a partner under the name of Brauer & Krohn. This partnership continued for ten years until, in 1907, he founded the tailoring establishment of A. K. Brauer & Co., of which company he was president until his demise. Mr. Brauer was active in the civic life of Los Angeles, and was a director of the Merchants' & Manufacturers' Assn. and of the Retail Merchants' Credit Assn. in that city. He was an adherent of the Republican party, and found his recreation in the developing of patents and in fishing and all out-door sports, with the exception of golf. In addition to his membership in the Blue Lodge, he was an active participant in various other Masonic bodies, being a Knight Templar, a Scottish Rite Mason, and a Shriner. He was also a life member of the Jonathan and the Athletic clubs of Los Angeles. Mr. Brauer is survived by his two daughters and by his widow, Mrs. Serena D. Brauer, who is active in club life and in charitable work, and resides at 701 S. Gramercy Drive, Los Angeles.

DERNE, Harvey, lumberman (deceased 1920); b. Union Bridge, Md., May 4, 1873; s. John and Sarah D.; ed. pub. schs. Md.; St. John's Coll., Annapolis, Md.; m. Myra Jane Weaver, of Asheville, N.C., Sept. 28, 1905; children — Harvey Edward, Myra Jane. Mr. Derne was first essayist in his college for three years, and valedictorian in his senior year. He specialized in the study of Greek, and taught for a year after his graduation, but was attracted by the lumber business, and became associated with the Raleigh Lumber Co. in West Virginia. Later he joined the Burns Lumber Co. of Tennessee, and then transferred his association in the lumber industry to the W. M. Ritter Lumber Co. of Columbus, Ohio, with whom he was connected for over twenty years, rising through various ranks in this organization to the position of general superintendent of manufacture, which office he occupied at the time of his demise. Mr. Derne was recognized as an expert authority on the hardwoods of the United States, and was placed by his associates in the industry as the leader of his craft. While never an aspirant to public office, he was an active supporter of the Democratic party, and, as a man of a deeply religious nature, was an active member of the Presbyterian Church. He did much good in this world and gave generously of his time and of his money to numerous charitable organizations and societies, and to private individuals in need. Few knew, however, except the organization or individual directly concerned, of these contributions, for he was a man who considered such acts of generosity a matter which his code did not permit of exploitation. Mr. Derne is survived by his son and daughter and by his widow, Mrs. Harvey Derne, a descendant and member of one of the best known pioneer families of America. She is active in the club life of the San Francisco Bay region, and resides at 825 The Alameda, Berkeley.

CENTER, George Lillie, assayer and manufacturer (deceased 1923); b. New Deer, Scotland, Nov. 10, 1842; s. George and Sophia (Lillie) C.; ed. pub. schs., Scotland; m. Margaret E. Malcolm, of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, April 6, 1877. Mr. Center was one of those sterling and resourceful men who constituted the vanguard of that vast army of immigration sweeping over the snow-clad crests of the high Sierras and through the portals of the Golden Gate in the early years that marked the discovery of gold and ushered in the formative period of the development of this great Empire of the West and for all time the State of California must pay honor to him and to his fellow pioneers. He arrived in the Golden State in 1860 and for many years thereafter he engaged in the exacting duties of a mining assayer, but his business acumen led him into wider fields of endeavor where his constructive talents and organizing ability soon brought him the reward that was their due. As manager of his uncle's real estate business, and also as president of the California Cotton Mills in Oakland, he developed the interests of these concerns to their fullest capacity. His widespread activities included directorships in the Bank of California and other financial institutions, while his service from 1908 to 1912 upon the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco was proof of his devotion to the welfare of the community. Mr. Center was a lifelong student, and never more content than when in his study, surrounded by the books that he loved so well. He professed no political affiliations, but this did not prevent him from assuming more than his due share in the civic responsibilities of his adopted country and the duties that fall to a worthy citizen of any state. In his religious activities he gave his adherence and his support to the Presbyterian Church, and his entire life was a reflection of the highest teachings of his church. He was active in the Masonic Fraternity, and in addition to his membership in Occident Lodge, F. & A. M., he was a member of the Mystic Order of the Shrine. Mr. Center's support of the activities of his church and the charities of his community are now leading factors in the life of his widow, who resides at 2937 Ashby Avenue, Berkeley.

Dunlap, Ia.; children—Mary Adele (Mrs. Wm. H. Kennedy), Ethel Grace (Mrs. Burt J. Thompson), Edith (dec.), Lloyd Dwight. Dr. Satterlee enlisted in the 11th Connecticut Volunteers, and was assistant surgeon with the Sanitary Corps during the entire period of the Civil War. He was in General Grant's army at the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox, April 9, 1865, and was promoted to the rank of major when he was mustered out of the service in December, 1864. For a number of years Dr. Satterlee practiced medicine in Norwich, Conn., and then located in Dunlap, Ia., where he continued his profession for many years. Here he acted as Division Surgeon for the Northwestern Railroad. When about fifty years of age he retired from his profession and gave his attention to various other enterprises, including a drug-store, a stock farm and, later, banking. While residing at Dunlap he was Master of Dunlap Masonic Lodge, was affiliated with the Knights of Pythias, and was a leading member of the First Congregational Church, in which he was a chorister, Sunday-School Superintendent and Bible-Class leader. At the age of 63, a major operation incapacitated him for further active labor, and in 1903, accompanied by part of his family, he moved to Los Angeles. Here he became a member of the Los Angeles City Club and of Stanton Post of the Loyal Legion, and also joined the First Congregational Church. Dr. Satterlee was a supporter of the Republican party, and found his recreation in reading and walking. In addition to three children, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna E. Satterlee, whose home is at 912 S. Burlington Ave., Los Angeles.

John William McClymonds was successively principal of the Petaluma High School, the San Leandro Union High School and the Lincoln Grammar School of Oakland following his arrival in California in 1874. His outstanding merit as an educator was recognized during his three years as principal of the Lincoln Grammar School, and secured him the promotion to the post of Superintendent of Public Schools of Oakland in 1892, an office which he filled with distinction until his retirement in 1919. Professor McClymonds was signally honored by the Oakland Board of Education in their bestowal upon him of the title of Superintendent Emeritus of the Oakland schools, and by the erection of that massive institution of learning at 28th and Myrtle streets in Oakland which bears his name and stands as a monument to his devotion to public service. From 1915 until 1918 he was president of the Oakland chapter of the Junior Red Cross, and his interest in the development of his profession is evidenced by the McClymonds-Jones Elementary Arithmetic, of which he was the author in collaboration with Mr. Jones. Professor McClymonds found his recreation in duck-hunting, mountain camping and in every form of out-of-doors life. He was a 33° Mason and a member of the Knights Templar. In politics he supported the Republican party, and, as a member of the United Presbyterian Church, he was active in the religious life of his community. After teaching school for five years, Dr. Boone was elected superintendent of schools at Frankfort, Indiana, which position he held from 1876 to 1889. In the latter year he was appointed Professor of Pedagogics at the University of Bloomington, where he remained for seven years, with the exception of a year's leave for special study at Johns Hopkins University. Following a period as superintendent of schools of Cincinnati and a short residence in Yonkers, N.Y., he entered the lecture field, and traveled in the interests of his profession for five years. In 1903 Dr. Boone was elected president of Michigan State Normal School, and in 1910 he was appointed to the Chair of Education at the University of California, where he remained until his demise in 1923. He was the author of much literature on the subject of his profession, and among his better-known works are: Education in the United States, 1899; History of Education in Indiana, 1891; Science of Education, 1904. For a number of years he was editor of the Boston magazine, Education, and he also wrote editorials for the Sierra Educational News for several years. Dr. Boone was a Mason, a Republican and a member of the Society of Friends. He was also a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, the National Education Association and the Council of Education, and took an important part in the revision of the Chicago system of schools. His interest in the affairs of the community was evidenced by his membership in the Charity Board of San Francisco and Berkeley for ten years, and his direct descent from Daniel Boone of Kentucky is recalled in his love of hiking and fishing as recreations from his professional duties. Dr. Boone is survived by his three children and by his widow, Mrs. Mary E. S. Boone, who resides at 1114 Amador Avenue, Berkeley.

San Francisco, Dec. 13, 1866; children—Clare Selby (Mrs. Bullitt, dec.), Louis Chapman. Upon completing his education, Mr. Ralston became associated with the banking firm of Garrison & Fretz in Panama, but in 1863 he decided to make his home in California, and in that year joined the staff of the Pacific Insurance Co. in San Francisco. Following the collapse of that company at the time of the great Chicago fire, he made his home in Virginia City, Nevada, for three years, representing various banking and mining interests. In 1875, upon the death of his father-in-law, Thomas H. Selby, he assumed the duties and position of president of the Selby Smelting & Lead Co., of which company Mr. Selby was the founder and president. The direction of the affairs of this well-known organization occupied the major portion of his time until his retirement from participation in its activities upon its consolidation with the American Smelting & Refining Corporation in 1905. Mr. Ralston was always interested in all charitable enterprises, and was a director of the Institute for the Deaf and Blind, Berkeley, and also was interested in the Women's Hospital. He was a director of Mills College and the Y.M.C.A. of Oakland, and an active member of the Prison Commission. His support in politics was given to the Republican party, and as an elder in the Presbyterian Church he devoted much care to the religious life of the State. He is survived by his son, Louis Chapman Ralston and his widow, who makes her home at 269 Vernon Street, Oakland.

DUCAS, Salomon, realtor (deceased 1924); b. Salzburg, Germany, July 31, 1854; s. Leopold Ducas; ed. Heidelberg, Germany; m. Emma Jane Hunter, of Idaho Springs, Colo., Oct. 31, 1878. Mr. Ducas arrived in America when but sixteen years of age, and after clerking in a Cleveland, Ohio, tailor shop for six years and obtaining a mastery of the English language, he moved to Georgetown, Colorado, in 1876. After a year in the drygoods business there in partnership with a Mr. Pollock, he transferred to Idaho Springs, Colorado, where he established a drygoods and furniture business which was later destroyed by fire. Following various mining and commercial ventures, Mr. Ducas located in Denver, where he established a cigar business with the aid of his father-in-law, A. J. Hunter. This was successful, as also were several other enterprises to which he gave his attention in the succeeding three years. In 1883 he transferred his activities to San Francisco, and engaged in manufacturing until 1886, when he became manager of the San Francisco office of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. This occupied his full attention for several years until he entered the real estate field, when he established his own business under the name of the S. Ducas Company. In 1897, in company with Mrs. Ducas, he joined the gold rush to the Klondike, having chartered the "Northfork" for the northern voyage, and fully equipped his party for the undertaking. This venture was unsuccessful, and he returned to San Francisco, where he reengaged in the real estate business. In this he met with remarkable success, and many of the populous centers of San Francisco's present residential districts owe their development to his efforts in the years that followed. Mr. Ducas was a Republican and an adherent of the Jewish faith, being a member of the Congregation Beth Israel. His numerous benefactions are now carried by his widow, Mrs. Emma Jane Ducas, who is an active member of the First United Presbyterian Church and resides at 630 Mason Street, San Francisco.

Mr. Cochrane arrived in California in 1900, and shortly thereafter he was appointed guard at Folsom State Prison, near Sacramento, and advanced through the various posts of guard, turnkey and lieutenant of the guard to finally become captain of the guard. He was prominently identified with the major prison-break at Folsom in 1903, and almost lost his life on that occasion, but recovered completely, due to his splendid physique. Returning to his duties at a later date under Warden Smith, he continued on the prison staff until 1924, when he was killed by the fall of a derrick within the prison. Mr. Cochrane was a man of sterling character, highly respected in prison circles because of his unflinching courage and his keen sense of sympathy toward his charges. He was active in the councils of the Democrats, and was a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from Alameda County. In addition to his connections with Folsom Prison, he was a director of the Jersey Milk, Cream & Butter Co., of Oakland. Mr. Cochrane was an adherent of the Roman Catholic Church and a member of the Knights of Columbus, Oakland. He is survived by his four children and by his widow, Mrs. Sarah A. ANSELL, Percival Leonard, roentgenologist (deceased 1927); b. London, England, April 4, 1883; ed. Holborn Sch., London; Oakland (Calif.) Coll. of Med.; m. Emma Alice Phegley, of Cross Timbers, Mo., April 2, 1913; children — Marjorie (dec.), Leonard Walter, Alice Louise, William Houghton. Dr. Ansell was the founder of the Ansell & Felte X-Ray Laboratory, of Oakland, and was instrumental in developing the popular use of X-Ray diagnoses and treatments, and in the curative use of radium. In this field of his work he brought the full brilliance of his abilities to bear upon the wider application of the X-Ray and radium in the realm of medicine, and was a valued contributor to various medical discussions in the American Medical Association Journal. He was without doubt one of that group of scientists whose achievements constitute not only the basis of undying personal respect but remain as a heritage for all ages to come. Dr. Ansell found his recreation in the propagation and cultivation of flowers, and was a golf and bridge enthusiast. He was an associate member of the American Medical Association and a member of the Pi Beta Phi Fraternity, Berkeley. His club memberships included the Duck Club, Mount Diablo Country Club, Athens Athletic Club, Sequoyah Country Club and the Elks Club, all of Oakland, and the Faculty Club of Berkeley and the Jonathan Club, Los Angeles. In his religious affiliations he was an adherent of the Episcopal Church. Dr. Ansell is survived by two sons, one daughter and by his widow, Mrs. Emma A. Ansell, who is prominent in club life and resides at 6308 Acacia Avenue, Oakland.

Following several years spent as a civil engineer in railroad construction in the New England states and Pennsylvania, Mr. Bangs served in the ranks of the Boston (Mass.) Regiment during the Civil War. Upon his return to civil life, he was appointed City Superintendent of Schools at Troy, N.Y., and, after five years in that position, served in the same capacity at Albany for the succeeding five years. In 1875 he was appointed to the same post in Holland, Michigan, resigning to come to California in 1885. In San Francisco he became associated with George H. Buckingham in the real estate, stock and bond business, and upon the latter's death he managed the Buckingham estate until his own retirement from business in 1922. Mr. Bangs was actively interested in civic improvement, and in addition to membership in various improvement clubs of Berkeley, he was a member of the Commonwealth Club of California, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the Grand Army of the Republic. He was a supporter of the Republican party and was a member of the First Congregational Church of Berkeley, in which he served as deacon for several terms. Mr. Bangs was a direct descendant of Edward Bangs, one of the Pilgrim Fathers, while Mrs. Bangs was a direct descendant of Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Miss Winifred S. Bangs, who survives her parents, is active in club life in the East Bay district, and during the World War served with distinction in many capacities. She resides at the family home, 2710 Regent Street, Berkeley.

F. Caffee), Hazel Katherine (Mrs. Henry J. Meyers), Edna Mary (Mrs. Alan J. Wright). Mr. Johnson moved to California in 1890, and became interested in various mining and publishing enterprises. From the date of its inception he was a director of the Union Publishing Co., publishers of the Morning Union of Grass Valley and Nevada City. For several years he was sole owner of the Lightner Mine in Alleghany, Sierra County, disposing of his interests there in May, 1917. At the age of twenty-one Mr. Johnson became a Mason, and affiliated with Forest Lodge, Forest, Sierra Co., a short time after his arrival in California. He was also a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of Nevada City, an adherent of the Lutheran Church and while never an aspirant for public office, was an active supporter of the Republican party. Mr. Johnson passed away at Albuquerque, N.M., on January 5, 1918, and California thereby lost one of its most able, brilliant and resourceful citizens, one whose career was a record of worthy, upright living, of strict adherence to high personal standards, of talents and powers used for worthy ends. Mr. Duane began his career in the business world as a stock-broker, and later moved to Nevada, where he became associated with the firm of D. W. Earl & Company. His work on behalf of this company was conducted in various towns on the California-Nevada border, and during the early '80s, when the Santa Fe Railroad was under construction, he took an active part in the commercial life of that territory. During the latter part of his connection with D. W. Earl & Company he made his home in Daggett, where he handled his company's business for many years, establishing a reputation for integrity throughout the entire desert country, and being held in universal esteem from Salt Lake City to the coast. Following his years in Daggett he moved to Los Angeles, where he became connected with the Sun Drug Company, and he was treasurer of that firm at the time of his demise. Mr. Duane was a Republican in politics and was at all times much devoted to out-door sports. He is survived by his five children and by his widow, Mrs. Beatrix Duane, who is a member of the Woman's Athletic Club and vice-president of the Maternity Cottage, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Duane resides at 5318½ Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood.

Prior to his arrival in California in 1924, Mr. Cooke was the owner of the Cooke Brewing Company of Chicago; but following his arrival here on May 3, 1924, he established the Cooke Company Inc., 1661 West Washington Street, Los Angeles, for the development of out-door advertising. Of this company he was president and active director until shortly before his demise on June 1, 1927. Mr. Cooke was affiliated with the Democratic party, and was an adherent of the Roman Catholic Church. He was at all times an ardent lover of the out-of-doors, and found relaxation from his business affairs in golf, hunting and fishing. His social and fraternal affiliations included membership in the Chicago Athletic Club and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Chicago, and, later, in Los Angeles. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Downey Cooke, who is now president of Cooke Company Inc., and resides at 245 S. Camden Drive, Beverly Hills.

BAUMANN, Ernest Wilhelm, painter, interior decorator (deceased 1925); b. Berlin, Germany, July 12, 1862; s. Friedrich Wilhelm and Justine (Schmidt) B.; ed. pub. schs., Germany; art sch., Berlin; m. Elizabeth Clemenz, of Germany, April 13, 1895; children — Ernest Wilhelm (dec.), John, Gertrude. Mr. Bauman spent practically his entire career in the practice of his profession, interior decorating, and in the painting of pictures. Among his outstanding work was the decorating of a convent in Houston, Texas, and many of his finer paintings are to be found today in the churches of Houston and San Francisco. He was deeply interested in the drama, and about 1900, while a resident of Houston, he produced and starred in German plays staged in Sangerbund Hall. Among his successes was the leading role in Schiller's tragedy, Kabale und Liebe, and his own play, titled Kindesrecht, written in German, was produced in Houston with great success. In November, 1905, Mr. Baumann and his family moved from Houston to San Francisco. There examples of his work may be seen in many private homes, and in Varella's chain of stores. Following his arrival in San Francisco, Mr. Baumann devoted most of his time to the painting of pictures, delighting in executing work of intricate detail purely for the love of his art. He was a constant patron of the opera, and was a talented violin player. In his fraternal affiliations he was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Lodge No. 13, San Francisco, which he joined in 1906, passing through all the chairs, and serving as secretary for many years. For many years prior to his demise he was instructor at the Evening School of Painting conducted by the Industrial Association of Master Painters of San Francisco. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Baumann, who resides at 329 Montcalm Street, San Francisco.

Following his graduation from law school, Mr. Acker moved to California, arriving in San Francisco in May, 1887. He immediately entered into the active practice of his profession, devoting his particular care to the interpretation of patent law. Later he formed the partnership of Acker & Totten, with offices in the Foxcroft Building, 68 Post Street, San Francisco, and continued the practice of his special branch of the legal profession until his demise on May 5, 1924. His services toward the protection of his clients' interests in their patents, and the aid that he rendered to the development of the present era in these services, constitute a contribution to the State of California that it would be difficult to estimate. Mr. Acker was an Episcopalian, and was at all times active in his support of the betterment of his community. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Susan E. Acker, who resides at 353 Euclid Avenue, Oakland.

Eddy, of Salt Lake City, Utah, Mar. 15, 1894. Mr. Cole devoted the earlier years of his career to various phases of the building trade and to perfecting himself in the art of wood-carving. From 1884 to 1886 he operated a lumber yard in Seward, Nebraska, and from the latter year until 1888 he engaged in the building business in Lincoln, Nebraska. After a year spent in Omaha, Nebraska, as a stair-builder and ornamental wood-carver, he became associated with the Deseret Planing Mill in Salt Lake City in 1889, and devoted the following twelve months to his profession as a wood-carver in the decorating of the Mormon Temple, then being erected in the Utah metropolis. His outstanding merit in his art made him the recipient of many honors at the Territorial Fair in 1890. He remained in Salt Lake City until 1894, and, in addition to his interest in his profession, was a member of the Deseret Agricultural & Manufacturing Society. In 1894 he moved to California, where he followed his art until 1901, when his interest in Christian Science led him to become a Christian Science practitioner, and during the fifteen years that elapsed before his demise he established himself securely in Los Angeles as an exponent of the principles of his church. In his political affiliations Mr. Cole was a Republican. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida A. Cole, who resides at 129 S. Avenue 58, Los Angeles.

J. Jacobsen). George Eddy Badgley was a direct descendant of John Alden and Priscilla through the descendancy of the Rev. William Eddy of Crainbrook, Kent Co., England, whose two sons, Samuel and John Eddy, emigrated to America on August 10, 1630, arriving at Plymouth, Mass., on October 29, 1630. Here Samuel Eddy married Lydia Alden, great-great-granddaughter of John Alden, on February 5, 1732. Their eldest son, Nathan Eddy, born September 6, 1733, was the great-grandfather of Aaron Badgley, the father of George Eddy Badgley. Mr. Badgley entered the business world in the Wisconsin lumber industry in 1882, and after engaging in farming in Faulk County, near Northville, South Dakota, from 1884 to 1890, he disposed of his interests there and moved to California, arriving November 28, 1890. For the next eight years he was connected with the mining industry of Trinity County, and in 1898 became manager of lime plants in Contra Costa and Santa Barbara counties. At the time of his demise he was manager and part owner of the Pacific Lime & Plaster Company of Sonora, Tuolumne County, and a director of the Tuolumne Fruit Land Company of Sonora. Mr. Badgley was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and of the Woodmen of the World. In politics he supported the Republican party, and he was of the Protestant faith. His recreations were hunting, fishing and all out-of-doors activities. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carrie S. Badgley, who resides at 1423 Arch Street, Berkeley.

FLINT, Frank Putnam, ex-U.S. senator, lawyer (deceased 1929); b. North Reading, Mass., July 15, 1863; s. Francis Eaton and Althea Louise (Hewes) F.; attd. pub. schs., San Francisco, and later studied law at Los Angeles; m. Katharine J. Bloss, of Los Angeles, Feb. 25, 1890; children—Katharine Pratt (Mrs. Henry S. MacKay Jr.), William Risley. Frank Putnam Flint's career in the service of California reflects in a worthy manner the service of his ancestor, Thomas Flint of Salem, to the newly-founded colonies in the seventeenth century. Following a brilliant record in the legal profession, he was appointed U.S. district attorney for the Southern District of California on April 8, 1897, and in 1905 was elected U.S. Senator for California. He served in the Senate until 1911, and while urged to return, he would not seek re-election on account of the urgency of family and business duties. Senator Flint's record in the Senate included the chairmanship of the Panama Canal Committee. From 1905 to 1909 he was Chairman of the Senate Committee of Geological Survey, and was a member of the following committees: Coast and Insular Survey; Education and Labor; Irrigation; Pacific Islands and Porto Rico; Public Lands and Private Land Claims (1905-1907); Interoceanic Canals (chairman 1909-1911). From 1909 to 1911 he was a member of the committees on Audit and Control; Contingent Expenses of the Senate; Education and Labor; Finance; Irrigation and Reclamation of Arid Lands; Pacific Islands and Porto Rico; Public Lands. On August 14, 1917, he was appointed a member of the State Land Settlement Board, and was reappointed on December 2, 1926. On August 7, 1917, he was appointed a member of the State Council of Defense, and on July 30, 1921, he was appointed to the advisory board of the Department of Public Works in the Land Settlement Department. He was a member of the committee to represent the State and Legislature of California in negotiating with representatives of Arizona and Nevada respecting claims and rights in and to the waters of the Colorado River, and was president of the National Boulder Dam Association. Among other notable achievements of Senator Flint was his aid in securing federal appropriations for the development of Los Angeles Harbor and for the development and conveyance of water from Owens River Valley to Los Angeles. He was also influential in securing a protective tariff for the benefit of the citrus industry of California, and was a member of the Federal Monetary Commission appointed by President Taft. At all times he gave his full efforts for the maintenance of party unity, and as the recognized leader in California of the Republican Party he was State delegate to the national conventions which nominated McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Hughes, Harding and Hoover, heading the delegation on practically every occasion. He was an intimate friend and adviser of Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Harding and Hoover, and upon the election of President Hoover, the latter acknowledged that the many years of friendship which had existed between them had played a strong part in his election. Senator Flint did much work in the Senate to improve the condition of the Indians, and his broad humanitarianism and religious tolerance were acknowledged everywhere. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena, and an active supporter of his faith; but he was held in high esteem by the leaders of all sects, and the Archbishops of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York were warm in their praise of the support that he gave to the Roman Catholic Missions in their work on behalf of the Indians. The part that he took in the internal development of California was a reflection of his senatorial work. He was president of the Los Angeles Investment Company and of the Investment Building & Loan Association, a trustee of the Hollenbeck Home, and a director of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, later the Los Angeles-First National Trust & Savings Bank. Senator Flint was one of the organizers and was first president of the Metropolitan Bank & Trust Company. This company commenced business in Los Angeles on May 1, 1905, and after holding the office of president for some time, he retired in favor of his brother, Motley, as he did not consider it appropriate for him to be president of a bank while holding the office of United States Senator. He continued as a director of the bank until it consolidated with the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank in 1909, and was also a director for many years of the First National Bank which was merged with the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles in 1928. His broad sympathies with the cause of education were evidenced by his appointment as a trustee of Occidental College, and as a member of the Stanford University National Board. In other departments of the life of the community he was equally active, and was a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Community Development Association, and the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association. He had charge of the Speakers' Bureau of the Liberty loan organization for Southern California during the World War. Among his other activities he was at one time attorney for the Southern Pacific Co. and was president and director of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Drydock Corporation and also vice-president, director and general counsel of the Evening Herald Publishing Co. During his lifetime, Senator Flint was a member of the following clubs and associations: American, California State and Los Angeles Bar Associations, Association of the Bar of the City of New York; California Club, Los Angeles; member and director of the Jonathan Club, Los Angeles; member of the University Club, Los Angeles; Sunset Club; Los Angeles City Club; La Cañada Men's Club; The Breakfast Club, Los Angeles; The Family Club, San Francisco; Metropolitan Club, Washington, D.C.; director and member of the Automobile Club of Southern California; member of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce; La Cañada Valley Chamber of Commerce; Commercial Club of Southern California; Altadena Citizens' Association; ex-president and director of the Flintridge Country Club; charter member of the Flintridge Riding Club; organizer of the Gouldmont-Flintridge Bridle Path Association; member of the Annandale Golf Club, of Pasadena; San Gabriel Valley Country Club; Tuna Club, Santa Catalina Island; Sons of the Revolution in the State of California; Society of Colonial Wars in the State of California. In his fraternal affiliations he was Past Master of East Gate Lodge No. 290, F. & A.M.; Knight Templar, Los Angeles Commandery No. 9; 32° Ancient & Accepted Scottish Rite Mason; Shriner, Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles; Honorary Member of the Arab Patrol; Sovereign, Red Cross of Constantine; member of East Gate Chapter No. 103, Royal Arch Masons; Elysian Council No. 1779, Royal Arcanum; Court E.G. No. 33, Independent Order of Foresters; the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, No. 99, Los Angeles; and of the Pasadena Shrine Club. Senator Flint owned, founded and lived in and loved the large and beautiful tract of land known as "Flintridge," situated in the foothills near Los Angeles and Pasadena. By his foresight he saw its great possibilities, and for many years his wisdom was effective in improving it and adding to its wealth of natural beauty. In addition to his son and daughter, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katharine J. Flint, who resides at Flintridge.

Mr. Francee emigrated to the United States in 1871, and arrived in California in 1877. Following his arrival on the coast, Mr. Francee engaged in house and carriage painting until 1885, when he became associated with the wholesale and retail furniture business, in which he continued until 1905. These activities were carried on in Salinas, where he had established his home in 1880, and during this period he took an active and prominent part in political affairs, being coroner and public administrator for Monterey County, then councilman and, later, mayor of Salinas. Mr. Francee was appointed by Governor Gillett in 1905 as a notary public for the city and county of San Francisco, and he maintained his offices in the Chronicle Building, now the de Young Building, until the time of his demise. He was an active Republican, a member of the Lutheran Church, and was prominently identified with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Effie M. Francee, who resides at 629 5th Avenue, San Francisco.

WATSON, Jennie Stanford Lathrop (Mrs. Walter C. R. Watson), clubwoman; b. San Francisco, Jan. 24, 1885; d. Charles Gardner and Libbie (Griswold) Lathrop (both dec.); ed. Convent of Notre Dame, San Jose, Calif.; Sacred Heart Convent, Paris, France; grad. Sacred Heart Convent,

Crest of Lathrop

Menlo Park, Calif., 1904; m. Walter C. R. Watson, of Napa, Calif., Mar. 7, 1908; children—Helen, Robert L. Mrs. Watson was reared by her father's sister, Mrs. David Hewes, of San Francisco, until the death of Mrs. Hewes in 1892, and thereafter by her aunt, Mrs. Leland Stanford, until the death of Mrs. Stanford in 1905. Among the educational institutions attended by Mrs. Watson was the exclusive Sacred Heart Convent, located at 77 Rue de Varennes, opposite the tomb of Napoleon in Paris. The main building of this convent constitutes a historically famous French property called Hotel Biron, once owned by Charles IX and presented by that monarch to the nuns. It was subsequently confiscated by the French Government, becoming the famous Musée Rodin. Mrs. Watson's ancestry illustrates in an admirable manner the distinguished foundation upon which was reared the meritorious record of many who have contributed to the upbuilding of California. Her family history is traceable on her father's side back to the reign of Henry VIII, of England, and on her mother's side to an early family of patriots, several members of which were Governors of Connecticut. Her father, Charles Gardner Lathrop, represented the eighth generation of Lathrops, all Americans over a period of three hundred years, and descended through a notable line from the Rev. John Lothroppe, B.A. 1605, and M.A. 1609, Queen's College, Cambridge, England. The Rev. Lothroppe arrived on the "Griffin" at Boston, Massachusetts, Sept. 18, 1634, and served as rector of the church at Barnstable, Mass., and died November 8, 1653. His great grandfather, John Lowthroppe, was an extensive landowner, the records of 1545, in the reign of Henry VIII, showing that he was heavily assessed. Mrs. Watson's mother, Libbie Griswold, was a descendant of the Griswolds who owned the famous Malvern Estates in England, and of Matthew Griswold, who emigrated to America with a company of Pilgrims during the reign of Charles I, landing in Massachusetts, May 30, DARBEE, Robert Eugene, merchant (deceased 1927); b. Liberty, Sullivan Co., N.Y., July 5, 1869; s. Levi Gates and Harriet J. (Gildersleeve) D.; ed. pub. schs., Liberty; m. Mrs. Annie H. Thomas (nee Gooch, widow of Dr. George Panton Thomas), of San Francisco, Nov. 17, 1902; 1 son, Andrew Levi. Mr. Darbee moved to San Francisco in 1893, and entered the oyster business under the firm name of Darbee & Immell in the old Sutter Street Market. Later he moved his business to the Union Square Market at Powell and O'Farrell Streets, and afterwards opened the well-known Darbee & Immell Oyster Grotto on O'Farrell Street near Powell. During this period the firm made large plantings of oysters in San Francisco Bay; but these, together with their holdings in the city, were destroyed in the disaster of 1906. Later the partners constructed a new building at the southeast corner of Fillmore and Bush Streets, and opened another oyster house, later moving their location to Sutter and Fillmore, where they continued successfully for several years. Mr. Darbee and his partner then ventured into other fields, and constructed and operated the Dreamland Skating Rink. The Fillmore Street Oyster House was closed in 1916, and Mr. Darbee then associated himself with his wife in the florist business, which engaged his attention until his retirement. Mr. Darbee was a great lover of the out-of-doors, and spent much of his time there. In politics he was a Republican, and in his religious beliefs he was an adherent of the Protestant faith. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie H. Darbee, who is active in the business world. She is a life member of Society of American Florists & Ornamental Horticulturists, and a member of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Assn., the Northwest Florists Assn. and the Bulb Growers' Society. Mrs. Darbee resides at 1048 Hyde Street, San Francisco.

Jackson), Pauline (Mrs. Malvern Dargee), Arthur Clendenin, Mary Lilian. After a period of service with the Northern Pacific Railroad, Mr. Adams entered upon his specialized career as a hydraulic engineer in 1889, and in 1896 moved to California. From 1898 to 1901 he was general manager of the Los Angeles Water Works, and in the latter year he was appointed manager and consulting engineer of the company then known as the Peoples Water Company, Oakland. He retained his connection as consulting engineer for the above company until his death in 1913, and also conducted a private practice, with offices in the Balboa Building, San Francisco, giving his professional services to the Spring Valley Water Company, of San Francisco, and many other similar organizations throughout the country. Mr. Adams was chairman of the building committee of the First Presbyterian Church, Oakland, and in addition to holding the same office for the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., supported these organizations generously. He was a member of the Delta Tau Delta, the Zeta Psi, the American Society of Engineers and several literary and civic associations, and was a supporter of the Republican Party. In addition to numerous published poems and technical papers, Mr. Adams was the author of a treatise, The Astoria City Water Works, 1917, which was awarded the Rowland Prize by the American Society of Civil Engineers. Mrs. May Adams, his widow, is an active worker in both civic and social affairs, and resides at 328 Pacific Ave., Piedmont.

RICHERT, Robert Charles, merchant (deceased 1925); b. Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 7, 1873; s. Charles and Johanna (Segin) R.; ed. pub. schs., Buffalo; m. Helen Tipton, of Buffalo, Sept. 3, 1914; children — Helen Jane, Barbara. Robert Charles Richert moved to California in 1892, and became interested in the tea, coffee and spice business in Los Angeles. For many years he was associated with the firm of Richert Brothers, later launching into business as an independent coffee importer, in which business he continued until the time of his demise. Mr. Richert deserves much credit for establishing a direct trade route between Mexican and Central American West Coast ports and the city of Los Angeles. Realizing the possibilities of building up a profitable trade with the merchants of the southern republics, Mr. Richert chartered a ship which was used exclusively in importing various Mexican and Central American products, and in return, cargoes composed of Los Angeles manfactured goods were distributed along the southern coast. He was the author of a series of technical articles dealing with the coffee industry, and was frequently mentioned in the public press on account of his activities on behalf of Los Angeles. Mr. Richert found his recreation in hunting, fishing and golf, and was a member of the Los Angeles Country Club, and of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. In his political affiliations he gave his support to the Republican party. He is survived by his two daughters and by his widow, Mrs. Helen T. Richert, of 438 North Sierra Bonita Avenue, Hollywood.

PLAYTER, Ely Welding, hardware merchant (deceased 1893); b. Toronto, Can., Oct. 6, 1819; s. Ely and Sophia (Beman) P.; ed. pub. schs., N.Y.; Lima Sem.; m. Sarah Matilda Neville, of New York, Feb. 1860; children—Charlotte S., Grace H. (Mrs. Murrey L. Johnson). Upon completing his studies at Lima Seminary, Mr. Playter followed the teaching profession for several years. This was followed by a year's study of the law in Buffalo, N.Y., but in 1852 he came to California, traveling by way of the Isthmus of Panama, and engaged in mining until his health forced him to seek a less strenuous commercial life in San Francisco. There he was associated with Conroy & O'Connor, hardware merchants, until they retired in 1886. Upon the reorganization of the business under the name of Dunham, Carrigan, Hayden Co., Mr. Playter discontinued his active share in the company, but retained his financial interest in it, and devoted his time to the civic life of Oakland. He was mayor of Oakland for two terms, being first elected to that office in 1885, and from 1889 until his demise he was a member of the Board of Public Works and president of the Police and Fire Commission of Oakland. In addition to these offices, he was a director of the Board of Education and of the Associated Charities of his city and a director and member of the Advisory Board of the Y.M.C.A., and also a director of the Oakland Bank of Savings. In politics he was a Republican, and as president of the official board of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Oakland he gave his practical support to every phase of the religious life of his city. Mr. Playter is survived by his daughters, Mrs. Murrey L. Johnson and Miss Charlotte S. Playter, the latter residing at 312 Mountain Avenue, Piedmont.

The military records in the office of the Adjutant General at Trenton, N.J., show that Mr. Cozad's great-grandfather, Samuel Cozad, served as a Captain in the Continental Army during the War of the Revolution. Mr. Cozad was also related to the late President Harding, his mother and the President's mother being cousins. For many years he was engaged in farming in Washington County, Pennsylvania, and later entered the grain business in Washington, Washington County, acquiring an elevator there. In June, 1895, he moved to California, where he engaged in the meat and catering business until his retirement. While a resident of Pennsylvania he was a member of the State Grange, and was delegate to the state convention at Harrisburg in 1890. Mr. Cozad was an ardent horseman, and much devoted to out-of-door recreation. In politics he was a Republican, and found a fitting expression for his religious beliefs in his adherence to the Protestant faith. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna E. Cozad, who resides at 1211 33rd Avenue, San Francisco.

Due to a succession of misfortunes and the prolonged illness and subsequent death of his father, Mr. Colgan was forced to leave school before his graduation in order to assist in the support of the family. He began his active career in a flour mill, later becoming a partner in a carriage-making and blacksmithing business. His entrance into public life was in the capacity of sheriff of Sonoma County, to which office he was elected twice. In 1890 he was elected State Controller, and served four terms, a total of sixteen years, being re-elected in 1906 for the fifth consecutive term; but died before the completion of his fourth term. During his political campaign, while he made no effort of his own part on account of illness, he was honored by the largest vote cast on the Republican ballot, leading the second highest by more than twenty-two thousand votes. Mr. Colgan was active in the affairs of the Masonic order, and was affiliated with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias, the Native Sons of the Golden West and the Benevolent & Protective Order of Elks, and was a member of the Sacramento Country Club. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Ellen Colgan, who is now engaged as a tax redemption expert in the office of the State Controller at Sacramento, and resides at 1228 N Street, Sacramento.

This post he held until 1906. Throughout his long career, while at times connected with other matters, Mr. Bailey maintained an active interest in the betterment of both the schools and the teaching profession. He was instrumental in establishing salaries for school superintendents through legislation that he fostered in 1880, and under his administration the schools of Contra Costa County had the distinction of being the first country schools to be graded in the State of California. Mr. Bailey was a Democrat in politics, and found his recreation in the operation of a twenty-acre ranch near Martinez, where he lived for twenty-four years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lottie T. Bailey, whose home is now at 1511 Edith Street, Berkeley.

Joseph Aaron Bush was born near the crest of Telegraph Hill, and from the age of one until his demise he made his home on Russian Hill. His father, John Bush, whose name is perpetuated in San Francisco by the important thoroughfare of Bush Street, came to California in 1850, and later became a successful iron founder. Mr. Bush began his career as a maker of picture frames with Sanborn, Vail & Company; but severed this connection to enter a partnership with his brother in a wholesale and retail meat market at Polk and Vallejo streets. In later years he entered the real estate field, and conducted a highly successful contracting and building business until his retirement in 1910. In politics Mr. Bush was a Republican, and he was a supporter of the Protestant faith. His principal recreations were found in out-of-door pursuits, but he was also a devotee of dancing and cards in his social life. Mr. Bush was a member of Doric Lodge 216, F. & A. M., and was for twenty years the treasurer of that lodge, and also had charge of its charitable work, to which he devoted much of his time. His fraternal affiliations also included membership in Islam Temple, Mystic Shrine, Mission Chapter 79, Royal Arch Masons, Golden Gate Commandery 16, Knights Templar, and Court 4, Royal Order of Jesters. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna B. Bush, who resides at 1816 Hyde Street, San Francisco.

In the latter year he was transferred to San Francisco as assistant manager of the supply department, and from that position rose to the post of manager of the San Francisco office. In 1916 he was elected president of the Pacific States Electric Company, and in that capacity, and as a director, he was active in the expansion of his company until his demise on July 3, 1925. Mr. Bibbins took an active part in the financial life of San Francisco as well as the various movements for the promotion of the industry to which he devoted the major part of his career. He was a director of the Pacific National Bank, and was a leader in the California Electrical Co-operative campaign. During 1919 he was president of the Pacific Division of the National Electrical Supply Jobbers' Association, and later served on its executive board. Mr. Bibbins was a Republican and a member of the Methodist Church, and was active in the Masonic Fraternity, being a Royal Arch Mason and a member of Aahmes Temple, Mystic Shrine, Oakland. He took an active part in the club life of the Bay region, and was a member of the Claremont Country Club, the Mt. Diablo Country Club, the Bohemian and Commercial clubs of San Francisco, and, in the interests of his chosen career, was active in the Electrical Development League. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Adele Grant Bibbins, who resides at the Hotel Claremont, Berkeley.

City; m. Ida Schuenemann-Pott, of San Francisco, Nov. 9, 1871; children — Frederick A. (dec.), Ida (Mrs. Leuschner), Ernest H. Mr. Denicke enlisted in the 10th N.Y. Volunteer Infantry on April 19, 1861, and was honorably mustered out of the service on December 20, 1865, having been previously promoted to lieutenant and having received the brevets of captain and major on March 13, 1865, for gallant and meritorious service. He served with the 10th N.Y. Infantry at the Battle of Big Bethel in 1861, and was also a participant in the battles of Yorktown, Williamsburg, Seven Days, Antietam and others, after which he was transferred to West Virginia, where he served under General Averill at White Sulphur Springs, Droop Mountain, and Salem. Following these engagements he was ordered to New Orleans to report to General Canby, and was afterwards attached to Admiral Farragut's fleet, where he served as Signal Officer on the Hartford at the battle of Mobile Bay. Mr. Denicke was elected to the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States as a companion of the first class in the Commandery of California, November 5, 1883, and was Junior Vice-Commander from May 24, 1899, to 1900. He moved to San Francisco in 1867, and was appointed customs inspector, later being a large shareholder in the Fredericksburg Brewery of San Jose until he closed out his interests in 1890. For a number of years he was president of the Central Trust Co. of San Francisco, and was also a director in several other banks and corporations. He was president of the Mechanics' Institute, regent ex-officio of the University of California, and a member of the G.A.R., the Bohemian Club of San Francisco, the German Independent Congregation, the Merchants' Association, the Gymnastic Union, the German Club and many other civic and social movements. His political affiliations were with the Republican party. He took a great interest in the National Guard of California, being appointed chief signal officer with the rank of colonel, consequent upon his part in organizing the Signal Corps. Following the San Francisco disaster of 1906 in which his home was destroyed, he went to Europe in an endeavor to regain his health; but died in the city of Geneva, Switzerland, on February 9, 1909. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida Denicke, who is active in the civic life of the Bay region, and resides at Cloyne Court, Berkeley.

Mr. Belden was a clerk in various law firms in the early part of his career, and in 1892 was appointed deputy county clerk of Superior Court No. 3, Alameda County. He held this office until 1896, when he became a partner in the real-estate firm of Dingee & Belden. This was followed by his organization of the Harbor Bank of Oakland, of which he was vice-president. His real estate interests led to his organizing the Belden Estate Company, of Oakland, and as president of that company he gave much of his attention to the realty, investment and insurance brokerage activities of his city. Mr. Belden was the founder of the Oakland Progress Club, and for two years he was president of the Piedmont Avenue District Property Owners' Association. He was also the organizer of the Athens Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Oakland, and was a member of the Nile Club and the Press Club, both of Oakland. His political affiliations were with the Republican party, and he was an adherent of the Protestant faith. As a member of a family distinguished in the literary world, and as a grand-nephew of James Gordon Bennett, newspaper man of world-wide fame, he carried on the traditions of his family in the many political articles that he contributed to the press. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Susie L. Belden, who is active in club and civic life and resides at 4216 Piedmont Avenue, Oakland.

Mr. Carnall began his business career at the age of sixteen in charge of a store at Prairie Lea, Texas, and upon his arrival in Berkeley in 1873 he became an agent for the San Francisco Chronicle. In 1877, in partnership with John G. Wright, he built the Alpha Block, the first business block in Berkeley. His success led to the establishing of the firm of Carnall & Eyre in 1878, engaging in the real estate business on a large scale. In 1879 this business became the firm of Carnall & Chapman, with offices in Berkeley and at 320 Sansome Street, San Francisco. Later he was associated with Charles A. Bailey and others, and in 1891 he organized the firm of Carnall, Fitzhugh, Hopkins & Co., with offices at 624 Market Street, San Francisco. Mr. Carnall continued as the directing spirit of this company until it was dissolved, after which he established the N. C. Carnall Company, and was active in its management until the close of his career. In his earlier years he wrote for school and college publications, and during a trip to the South Sea Islands he contributed articles to the San Francisco Chronicle. He also owned the Redwood City Democrat, and wrote many articles and editorials in the advancement of civic and social reform. Mr. Carnall was an active participant in public affairs, and was an outstanding orator. While his political affiliations were nominally Democratic, he was elected Assessor of Berkeley on an Independent ticket in 1880. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary S. Carnall, who resides at 2601 Webster St., Berkeley.

In 1895 Mr. Carey was appointed teacher of science at Menominee (Mich.) high school, and in 1896-97 he was principal of the high school at Lexington, Mass. From 1897 to 1899 he was teacher of science at the high school of Southbridge, Mass., and in the latter year he accepted an offer to become instructor in science at the College of the Pacific, San Jose, California. He occupied that post until 1901, and in 1902 he took charge of the science classes at Redwood high school. During 1903 he followed his profession in the same capacity at the high school of Petaluma, and in 1904 he returned to San Jose as teacher of science in the high school there, remaining until 1908, when he was appointed to a similar post in San Francisco. Mr. Carey followed his profession in San Francisco for ten years, teaching in the Mission, Lowell and Polytechnic schools, and specializing in physiography, until in 1918 he was appointed to take charge of the study of science at the high school of Chico. He remained at Chico until 1920, in which year he realized an ambition of some years' standing, and resigned from his profession to engage in the dairy business at Delhi, Merced County. This occupied his full attention until his demise in 1923. Mr. Carey found his recreation in the study of geology and was a member of the Le Conte Geological Club and also of the National Geographical Society. He was a Mason, a supporter of the Democratic party, and an adherent of the Protestant faith, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Beharrell Carey, who now resides at 1140 Cragmont Avenue, Berkeley.

KITTO, Samuel Henry, banker (deceased 1925); b. Vallejo, Calif., Oct. 10, 1868; s. Samuel and Margaret (Carter) K.; ed. pub. schs., Vallejo; m. Maud Muller Emig, of Carlisle, Pa., and Ogden, Utah, Feb. 27, 1895. Upon his graduation from Vallejo high school, Samuel Henry Kitto joined the Southern Pacific Company as a student telegraph operator, and in succession held the positions of night operator at Benicia, assistant agent at Suisun, night operator at Humboldt, Nevada, and agent at Verdi, Nevada, in 1895. From 1895 until 1903 Mr. Kitto was agent at Torrance, Nevada, and from the latter year until 1905 he was trainmaster and agent at Winnemuca, Nevada. While in Winnemucca he became associated with the late Senator George S. Nixon, of Nevada, and through that association he became connected with the banking profession in Carson City, Nevada. In 1906 he accepted the position of cashier with the Nye & Ormsby Company Bank of Goldfield, and later in the same year became associated with the Bank of San Francisco in the capacity of teller. This bank later merged with the First National Bank of Oakland, and this later merged with the American Bank, and Mr. Kitto rose progressively through the positions of teller, assistant cashier and cashier to vice-president. His hobbies were photography, flowers and music, and he enjoyed working with carpenter's tools, his exceptional cabinet-work being an expression of his natural artistic ability. He was a Republican and a Protestant, and was an active member of the Masonic Order, being a member of Winnemucca Lodge 19, F. & A. M., Nevada. Oakland Consistory of the Scottish Rite, and of Aahmes Temple of the Shrine, Oakland. David Jewett Baker, as 2nd lieutenant of the 12th U.S. Infantry, Company G, took part in the Sioux Campaign in Dakota in 1890-91. For the following two years he was in charge of the prisoners of war at Mt. Vernon, Alabama, and from the close of 1892 until 1897 he was instructor of the Illinois National Guard, serving on the staff of Governor John F. Altgeld. In 1898 he was in command of Company G, 12th U.S. Infantry in Cuba, and participated in the siege of Santiago and the battle of El Caney, being decorated for gallantry in action at El Caney. He accompanied his regiment to the Philippines early in 1899, and was engaged in the campaigns of that period, and upon the inception of civil government, he was detailed to assist in the organization of the custom service in the capacity of financial officer. He was next detailed to assist in the organization of the Philippine constabulary, a native organization, and during the last year of his association with it he was acting chief of the organization. In 1906, upon returning to the United States, he was assigned as staff officer of the 9th U.S. Infantry, and following his promotion to the rank of major, he was attached to the 11th U.S. Infantry and accompanied his regiment to Cuba in 1907. He graduated from the U.S. Army War College in 1908, and as a member of the Adjutant General's department, he served on the staffs of General Funston and General Clarence Edwards. In 1914 he was promoted to the rank of Lt. Colonel, and during the Border trouble in 1916 he commanded the 21st U.S. Infantry, being stationed at Yuma, Arizona. Following his promotion to the rank of colonel he served at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, in command of the 1st Texas Infantry Brigade. During the World War he organized and commanded the 57th U.S. Infantry, and commanded the Brownsville District and Camp Logan, Texas, and other camps. In 1920 he was detailed for service in the Philippines, and following his return to the United States in 1921, was assigned as instructor of the California National Guard, in which capacity he was associated with General David P. Barrows. Having completed forty years' service in 1922 he sought retirement from active duty, and spent the remaining four years of his life in well-earned leisure. Colonel Baker was a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and was a man of great culture, devoting much of his time to the study of literature. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of the Army of Santiago, the Society of Indian Wars, and also a member of the Faculty Club of the University of California and of the Army and Navy Club. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise Casey Baker, who is prominent in club circles and resides at 3000 Dana Street, Berkeley.

BECKETT, Frederick Arthur, pharmacist (deceased 1918); b. Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, Jan. 12, 1861; s. Frederick Garner and Hannah (Ryan) B.; ed. pub. schs. and coll., Hamilton, Ont.; grad. U. of Calif., 1883; m. Frances Mason Bowen, of Oakland, Calif., Sept. 27, 1888; children—Garner Arthur, Wheeler Martin Alfred. From 1883 until 1906 Mr. Beckett followed his profession in San Francisco, where he was also active in the development of what is now known as the Affiliated Colleges of the University of California. These colleges were originally independent units, and it was largely due to Mr. Beckett's efforts that they were fused into one organization. In the year following his graduation he became a director of the Alumni Association, served successively as secretary, 1885, vice-president, 1886, and trustee from 1893 to 1895. He was an officer of the California College of Pharmacy from 1889 to 1906, on the board of trustees as vice-president in 1889 and 1891-93, and as president in 1896-97. He also served as a director of the California Pharmaceutical Society from 1893 to 1906. Through his efforts, Adolph Sutro was induced to donate thirteen acres in San Francisco for an adequate campus for the schools of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, thus making it possible to utilize the $250,000 state appropriation for buildings and equipment. In 1895 he served on a committee of three which made a study of the schools of the U.S. and Canada, and the findings of this committee were later used in the improvement of the Affiliated Colleges. Following the fire of 1906, Mr. Beckett became associated with The Celluloid Company of New York, being engaged in the manufacturing departments of the company in New Jersey and in the sales division in New York City during the remaining years of his life. He was a supporter of the Republican party and an adherent of the Episcopal Church, and in addition to his two sons is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances M. Beckett, who resides at 510 Linden Drive, Beverly Hills.

ARAM, William Francis, lawyer (deceased 1910); b. Newark, O., Jan. 25, 1849; s. William and Mary (Eaton) A.; ed. pub. schs., San Francisco; grad. U. of San Jose; m. Marie E. Hatch, of Medford, Mass., Jan. 25, 1893. William Francis Aram came to California in 1851, and his father, who helped raise the first American flag at Monterey, was the first sheriff of Santa Clara County. Mr. Aram engaged in the practice of law in San Jose in 1869, but later moved to Bakersfield, where he was an instructor in languages until he resumed the practice of law in the Bay district, with offices in Oakland and San Francisco. He specialized in corporation law principally in connection with water rights and mining, and was a director of the Monarch Mine in Shasta County, the Magnet Group in Madera County and of the Jim Loag Mine in Shasta County. For a time he served as a trustee of the Carnegie Library of Shasta County, and when professional duties permitted, he devoted much of his time to writing, many of his articles appearing in the Unity publications of Kansas City. His principal recreation was boating, and he was affiliated with the Redmen, of which he was District Sachem of Shasta Lodge. In politics he was a Republican, and as an ardent churchman he was identified with the Methodist Church of Alameda, being a trustee. In his professional affiliations he was a member of the Bar Association of California. Mr. Aram is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie E. Aram, who is a member of the Mayflower Descendants and active in the club life of the Bay district, and resides at 1414 Park Avenue, Alameda.

Mr. Workman crossed the plains with his parents in a covered wagon in 1854, and following the death of his father in 1855 he entered upon his career in the printing office of the Southern Californian, later becoming associated with the Los Angeles Star. His next business connection was with the Mellus General Merchandising Co., after which he became a messenger for the Banning Transportation Co., of Wilmington, Calif. In this capacity he made a weekly trip from Wilmington to San Bernardino with a large payroll in gold coin. His next business venture was in partnership with his brother, Elijah H. Workman, when the two brothers entered into the manufacture of harness at 76 Main Street, Los Angeles, and upon his retirement from this business he devoted his time to the management of his properties. Mr. Workman was actively identified with the railroad development of the state, and following his share in the establishing of the Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railway he served on its first board of directors. He was always active in the civic life of Los Angeles, and was a member of the board of education, park commission, the city council for eight terms, beginning in 1872, mayor in 1887-1888, city treasurer from 1901 to 1907, and a director of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Workman was a Democrat, a Mason, and a member of the California Club, and also president of the Los Angeles County Pioneers. Among his gifts to the city of Los Angeles was two-thirds of the land which comprises Hollenbeck Park, and with the loyalty that always marked him he named it for his friend and associate in civic enterprises, John E. Hollenbeck. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maria Elizabeth Workman, who resides at 2424 Gramercy Park, Los Angeles.

FUNSTON, Frederick, army officer (deceased 1917); b. New Carlisle, O., Nov. 9, 1865; s. Edward Hoge and Ann Eliza (Mitchell) F.; ed. pub. schs., Kansas; U. of Kansas; m. Edna Blankart, of San Francisco, Oct. 25, 1898; children — Arthur McArthur (dec.), Frederick, Barbara, Edna. In 1890 Frederick Funston was appointed Special Agent for the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, and in this capacity he took part in the Death Valley expedition of 1891. From 1892 to 1894 he was in Alaska, and crossed Alaska to the Arctic Ocean, and traveled from the Mackenzie River to the Behring Sea. In 1896 the future general entered the Cuban insurgent army as a captain of artillery, and won promotion to lieutenant-colonel. Following this service on behalf of Cuban independence, he returned to the United States, and was commissioned Colonel of the 20th Kansas Volunteer Infantry on May 13, 1898, and accompanied his regiment to the Philippines, where he participated in the Luzon campaign under General McArthur. In this campaign he won distinction for his heroic feat of establishing a rope ferry across the Rio Grande River on April 26, 1899, while under heavy fire, and was promoted to Brigadier General of volunteers, May 1, 1899, and awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor on February 14, 1900. As commander of the Fourth District Department of Northern Luzon, he organized and commanded the expedition that resulted in the capture of the insurgent leader, Aguinaldo, March 20, 1901, thus completely suppressing the entire insurrection. He followed his career with growing success until 1906, when he again came into national prominence on the occasion of the San Francisco fire. General Funston had charge of the military forces in the days that followed that disaster, and it was largely due to his organizing ability that the city was placed upon a basis that allowed its immediate rehabilitation. In April, 1914, he commanded the expedition to Vera Cruz, Mexico, and served as military commander of that city until the following November. His promotion to the rank of major-general on November 17, 1914, was followed by his appointment to the command of the Southern Department in February, 1915, and in March, 1916, as commander of the United States forces on the Mexican Border, he took charge of the punitive expedition against Villa. His splendid military career was terminated by his death in 1917, two months prior to the entrance of the United States into the World War, a campaign for which General Funston was the logical leader, and in which he would have doubtless added fresh laurels to the arms of his country. He was both a lecturer and an author of outstanding merit, and, in addition to his influential place in the Spanish-American War Veterans, was affiliated with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. In his political views he supported the Republican party, which also embraced his father's political faith during his service as Congressman from the State of Kansas for a period of about fourteen years. General Funston's widow, Mrs. Edna Funston, resides at 147 9th Avenue, San Francisco.

While studing law he worked in newspaper offices as reporter and assistant editor, and after his admission to the bar, while actively engaged in the practice of the law, he was often engaged in editorial work. In 1872 he became editor-in-chief of the Portland Oregonian, and for four years conducted it as an independent Republican paper, Senator Corbett of Oregon being the publisher. At the time of his death, Mr. Hill was engaged in the compilation of a work on law for the Bancroft Publishing Co., and among the notable works of which he was author were Hill's Code of the Laws of Oregon and Hill's Code of the Laws of Washington. He was also the author of numerous poems, and was a prolific writer on current topics. In 1864 he was appointed judge of Grant County, Oregon, under the administration of Governor Gibbs. In 1888 he moved to Oakland, California, where he formed a partnership with W. R. Davis, former mayor of Oakland; but in his later years he conducted an independent practice. He was a 32° Mason and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star. In politics he was an Independent Republican, and although his father was a Baptist minister, he was a Unitarian. Mr. Hill is survived by one daughter, three sons and by his widow, Mrs. Julia Chandler Hill, who resides at 2673 Orange Avenue, Oakland.

Mr. Eldridge was the great-grandson of Christopher Jacquin, who served under Lafayette in the Revolution, and William Cullen Bryant was also included in his family tree. He devoted the major part of his career to the designing of automatic machinery, and held an important place in California as a consulting engineer. In the early part of his career he was associated with the E. O. Bennett machine-shop, Hayward, and following a period spent in Fred Robin's Machine Works in San Francisco, he opened an office in association with Peter Kruse on Market Street, San Francisco. In 1901, with the financial support of John Fox, he went to Astoria, Oregon, and became associated with the Astoria Iron Works in the exploitation of his can-body machine. Following his return to San Francisco, he joined the Pacific Manifolding Book Company in 1910, and in 1919 he became a director of National Electrical Corporation, San Francisco. At the time of his demise he was consulting engineer for the Eby Machine Company, San Francisco, and was also interested in various projects of his own. Mr. Eldridge was a Republican and an adherent of the Presbyterian Church, and was also a member of the Woodmen of the World. He is survived by his three children and by his widow, Mrs. Ida Madeline Eldridge, who resides at 6015 Colby Street, Oakland.

PELTON, Lester A., inventor (deceased 1908); b. Vermilion, Ohio, Sept. 5, 1829. At the age of 20 he crossed the plains to California and tried his hand at mining in the foothills and mountains of the central part of the State. In 1864 he took up the trade of millwrighting and built and equipped many of the early stamp-mills and power plants of the mining regions, centering his activities at the bustling little mining camp of Camptonville in the northeastern corner of Yuba County. During the winter of 1877-78 he devoted many weeks to experimentations and brought out the first model of the Pelton water-wheel, now used around the world in connection with water-power generation. In various forms this wheel is now used in all impulse turbines below 56,000 horse-power in a single unit. He died in 1908, a few years after his achievement had been recognized by the award to him of the Elliott Cressen medal by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia. A monument to the memory of this celebrated inventor was unveiled at Camptonville on August 31, 1929, the dedication ceremonies being conducted by the Masonic Grand Lodge of California with former Grand Master George L. Jones of Nevada City giving the principal address. Lester A. Pelton's body is buried at Camptonville.

Upon leaving college Mr. Pratt served his apprenticeship before the mast, learning navigation in ships built and operated by his uncles, and finally receiving full navigation papers. In 1849, accompanied by his brothers, he sailed via Cape Horn to California, and, following his arrival, became interested in mining along the Trinity River; but after the disastrous flood of 1851 he gave up mining, and turned to stock raising and agriculture, later giving his attention to teaming and merchandising. His activity in the construction of the new railroad grades over the Sierras led to his becoming associated with the Southern Pacific Company, and for thirty years he was in the service of this company, being assistant general superintendent from 1882 until his resignation in 1895. In the latter year he retired to his farm, Elms Haven, situated in Napa Valley. This farm had been owned by him for a quarter of a century before his retirement, and had furnished him recreation during his years in active business. Mr. Pratt was also president of the Yosemite Stage Company. In 1851 he was one of the founders of Colusa County, becoming its first auditor. He was a Republican and an adherent of the Baptist faith. Mr. Pratt is survived by four of his children, his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Pratt Carr, residing at 3950 W. 8th St., Los Angeles.

Following his graduation, Alvah Wilson Adkinson was elected professor of mathematics in Moore's Hill (now Evansville) College, Indiana, remaining there for two years. In 1878 he was pastor at Charleston, but in the following year he returned to Moore's Hill College as professor of ancient languages. At the solicitation of Bishop Wiley, he went to Ogden, Utah, in 1881, remaining there for three years, and from Ogden he was called to South Dakota, where he remained for seven years, serving pastorates at Huron, Mitchell and Watertown, and for two years being president of Dakota University, now Dakota Wesleyan. The next five years were spent in missionary work at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and from there he was called to Ohio, where he remained until 1898, when he was called to Long Beach, California. During his five years in Long Beach as pastor of the First M.E. Church he built a church and a parsonage. His next six years were spent as presiding elder of the Los Angeles district, after which he was pastor of the First Church at Riverside, California, for three years. In 1912 Dr. Adkinson was appointed superintendent of missions in Arizona, and spent eleven years there, after which he was pastor at Chino, California for two years, thus completing fifty years in the service of his church. In 1892 he was delegate to the General Conference on behalf of the Dakota Conference, and in 1908 the Southern California Conference sent him as their representative. Dr. Adkinson was a trustee of the University of Southern California, a Republican and a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. He is survived by one son, one daughter and by his widow, Mrs. Kate Luella Adkinson, who resides at 1813 South Van Ness Avenue, Los Angeles.

ADAMS, Albert M., farmer (deceased 1922); b. Preau, Vt., Feb. 18, 1842; s. Ely and Debora (White) A.; ed. pub. schs., Vt. and N.Y.; m. 2nd, Julia A. Kelley, of Rutland, Vt., Feb. 15, 1897. In 1862 Mr. Adams enlisted for service in the Civil War. He was then residing in Salem, New York, and joined Company E, 123rd Infantry. Serving with distinction until his discharge at Troy, New York, in 1865, he took part in twenty-seven major engagements, and accompanied Sherman on his historic March to the Sea. At the close of the Civil War, Mr. Adams was employed for a short period in a fork factory at Wallingford, Vermont; but soon found to his advantage to become associated with the cheese-making industry, and after having gained a full knowledge of the business, he was engaged for some time in the purchase of supplies for a number of factories. Terminating his connections with the cheese industry, he returned to farming, which he had followed before the war, and continued to give his full attention to agriculture until 1911, when he came to California. Upon his arrival on the coast he located in Los Angeles, and was for some time interested in real estate projects; but ill health compelled him to retire from active life some time prior to his demise. During his residence in Vermont, Mr. Adams was postmaster at Benson for some time. He was an active supporter of the Democratic party, and while not a member of any church, he was liberal in his financial support of the Congregational Church. Mr. Adams was a member of the Masonic fraternity and of the Grand Army of the Republic. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia A. Adams, who resides at 2031 Cambridge Street, Los Angeles.

(wife of Dr. Harry Beale Torrey). Mr. Crabbe served in Company F of the 82nd Indiana Infantry for three years during the Civil War, and was honorably discharged near the close of the war because of disability brought on through marches and exposure on the battlefield. Following his training in Xenia Theological Seminary, the Rev. Mr. Crabbe held pastorates at St. Louis, Buffalo, N.Y., and Mercer, Pa. These were all well-established and prosperous pastorates in the United Presbyterian Church. In 1887 he was appointed by the Board of Home Missions of his denomination to assume charge of a new mission at 8th and Hill streets, Los Angeles, and after devoting six years to that undertaking he began a new mission in an outlying part of the city, remaining there until his demise in 1917, and completing fifty years in the service of the church. Mr. Crabbe was a Republican, and worked unceasingly on behalf of the prohibition movement and also for woman suffrage. He gave untiring effort to the movement for a united Protestant Christendom, and was the author of a number of papers and pamphlets on church unity, world peace and kindred subjects. In the course of his career he held many offices in his church, and was a member of many clubs, as well as the Ministerial Union, the Church Federation and other similar organizations. He is survived by his two daughters and by his widow, Mrs. Martha J. Crabbe, who resides at 1135 West 30th Street, Los Angeles.

GRIFFIN, George Butler, lawyer, diplomat (deceased); b. N.Y. City, Sept. 8, 1848; s. Charles Alexander and Pastora Jacoba (deForest) G.; grad. Columbia U.; m. Eva Guadalupe de la Plaza, of Colombia, S. America, 1881; children—Jack (dec.), J. deForest, Clementina deForest, Georgia Butler, Phyllis (Mrs. Daniels), Alma deForest (Mrs. Stengler), Helena (Mrs. Cripps), Eva (Mrs. Lloyd). Colonel Griffin had a remarkable record of success, and whether as civil engineer, newspaper editor, lawyer or ambassador, he fully sustained the distinguished reputation of his ancestry. His title was bestowed upon him in honor of his mission as ambassador from the United States to Colombia, and at the time of his death he was preparing to accept the offer of his government to act as ambassador to Spain. His first period of residence in California began in 1870. This was interrupted by his diplomatic duties, but he returned to the state in 1880, and gained distinction as a lawyer in Los Angeles. The literary work of Colonel Griffin is divided into two sections: first, the histories written for the late George Bancroft on the subject of California, along with his historical articles in numerous magazines; and, second, his poetry, which holds a unique place in American literature. He was president of the Historical Society of Southern California at the time of his demise, and was otherwise interested in the history of the state. Colonel Griffin is survived by seven children and by his widow, Mrs. Eva G. Griffin, who resides at 3301 West Adams Street, Los Angeles.

BEATTY, James H., jurist (deceased 1928); b. Lancaster, O., 1836; s. John and Delilah J. (Berry) B.; grad. O. Wesleyan U., 1858; m. Mary Caldwell, of Hamilton, O., 1870. James H. Beatty was located in Iowa prior to the Civil War, and in the latter part of that historic conflict he played a distinguished part as senior lieutenant of the 4th Iowa Battery of Artillery. At the close of the war he was appointed superintendent of schools at Jackson, Mo., and in September, 1865, he began the practice of law in Lexington, Mo., being register in bankruptcy there from 1865 to 1872. In the latter year he was appointed assistant U.S. attorney at Salt Lake City, Utah, where he remained until 1882, when he moved to Idaho. Following his appointment as Chief Justice of Idaho by President Benjamin Harrison in 1889, he took up residence in Boise. He was a member of the Territorial Council of Idaho, and was one of the compilers of the Idaho revised statutes of 1887 and of the local and special laws of Idaho. In 1889 he was a member of the Constitutional Convention of Idaho, and in this capacity, as in his capacity of U.S. district judge of the District of Idaho, his decisions constitute the basis of much of the mining law of the West. With Mrs. Beatty he took an active part in the development of the city of Boise, and devoted much time to the establishing of the city's schools and libraries on their modern basis. Judge Beatty retired from the bench in 1907, and while he maintained his home in Coeur d'Alene he spent considerable time in world travel. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary C. Beatty, who resides at 1600 North Ogden Drive, Los Angeles.

CLARK, Arthur John, mining expert (deceased 1927); b. New Durham, Ontario, Canada, Sept. 11, 1861; s. John and Louise (Mann) C.; ed. pub. schs., Woodstock, Ontario; m. Emma Beatrice Devereaux, of Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 3, 1898. Arthur John Clark left Canada in 1878, and established a mercantile business in Durango, Colorado, but after a few years he transferred his attention to mining in Ophir and Telluride, Colorado, in which centers of the mining industry he developed an enviable reputation both as an expert in mining and for his business integrity. Following his success in Colorado, he was attracted to southern California, and moved there from Denver in February, 1905. This did not lessen his interest in mining; for he retained mineral holdings which he had acquired in Arizona while also giving his attention to a warehouse business in Hollywood. His principal holdings were in the Premier Fireproof Storage Company of Hollywood, of which he was president, director and chief shareholder, and the Tungsten Reef Mines Company, of Hereford, Arizona, of which he was president, director and principal owner. He was a Republican and a Presbyterian, and a member of the Jonathan Club, the Hollywood Athletic Club and the Brentwood Country Club. Mr. Clark is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Beatrice Clark, who is a graduate of the New York Conservatory of Music, and resides at 709 North Palm Drive, Beverly Hills.

In the latter year he moved to Los Angeles, where he established an independent practice, later becoming associated with Judge N. P. Conrey and Clarence Miller. Under the administration of President Benjamin Harrison he was appointed U.S. district attorney for the district of southern California, which post he resigned upon the change of administration, and was succeeded by George Denis. He then established a partnership with Frank P. Flint, who was later to become U. S. attorney. In January 1897 he retired from private practice, having been elected to serve on the superior bench of Los Angeles County, and in 1905 he was appointed to the newly established appellate court. In 1907 he was elected presiding justice, and held that office until his demise in October, 1913. Justice Allen was for many years a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and was a supporter of the Republican party. He was a member of the San Gabriel Golf Club, and of the Annandale Golf & Country and the Twilight clubs of Pasadena, and was affiliated with the Masonic Order, being also a member of Al Malaikah Temple of the Shrine, Los Angeles. In addition to his two daughters, Justice Allen is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Allen, who resides at 465 South Grand Avenue, Pasadena.

Mr. Hicks began his active career as an apprentice in the blacksmith and general repair shop owned and operated by his brother, John R. Hicks, Stockton, Kan. In his early twenties he left home and worked for some time in Denver, Colorado, and in Cheyenne, Wyoming; but returned to Stockton in 1882, and soon after his marriage in that year he entered business on his own account at La Crosse, Kansas. In 1888 he moved to Nebraska, pursuing his trade as a metal-worker there, and in 1896 he located in the Black Hills district of South Dakota, being employed at various mines there. In 1902 he invented the Hicks drill sharpener, and in 1904 he took his invention to the Coeur d'Alene mining district of Idaho, where he remained until 1910, when he moved to the mining camp of Republic, Washington. The mining business having declined in 1915, he moved to Los Angeles where he followed his business as a master mechanic and developed his own inventions. Between 1921 and 1923 he invented and perfected the Hicks gear and wheel puller, which proved a valuable asset to the mechanical world. At the time of his demise he was operating his own machine-shop in Los Angeles, and was engaged in developing a number of patents which remain incomplete. Mr. Hicks was a Republican and a Protestant and a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Modern Woodmen. Wilmot, of Eugene, Ore., Oct., 1887; children—Edward, Leila, Harold (dec.), Ellsworth, Marie. The greater part of Anton Egli's active career was spent in cattle raising and other branches of stock farming in northern California and Oregon. It was a line of work in which his energies were fully capitalized. Mr. Egli represented that pioneer group of Westerners who took advantage of the undeveloped country, and derived life-long enjoyment from handling, training and improving livestock. After a number of years devoted to managing his interests from his headquarters at Egli, Oregon, he retired to spend the remainder of his days in San Jose, California. He was an ardent supporter of the Republican party, and was an adherent of the Protestant faith. In addition to his four surviving children, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sophia B. Egli, who resides at 106 South Dillon Street, Los Angeles.

CASLER, Clinton Bradshaw, banker (deceased 1919); b. Tipton, Ind., Oct. 13, 1842; s. James Burr and Eliza A. (Fallis) C.; ed. pub. schs., O. and Ill.; m. Elizabeth A. Haught, of Ill., Oct. 29, 1868 (dec.); 1 dau. (adopted), Emma W. Mr. Casler enlisted as a private in Company H, 7th Illinois Infantry, in 1861, and re-enlisted in Company L of the 4th Iowa Cavalry. He served in the latter until the close of the Civil War, advancing to the rank of first sergeant, and participating in the battles of Helena, Vicksburg, Wilson's Raid and other major engagements. At the close of the Civil War, he drove a supply wagon across the plains, and located in St. Louis, where he engaged in the hotel business. In 1878 he moved to Texas; but shortly afterwards he returned to Missouri, and entered the grocery business at Tarkio. Purchasing a lot there, he erected a hotel which he managed for several years, and also became interested in a bank there. Disposing of his interests, he moved to Nebraska, where he was interested in the lumber business and in cattle raising until he moved to California in 1901. Following his arrival in California he entered the banking field, and was interested in the First National Bank and the Citizens State Savings Bank, both of Gardenia, and the Moneta Commercial Bank, of Moneta, in which banks he was a director, as he had previously been in the Tarkio Valley Bank, Tarkio. During the years of his residence in Missouri he was judge of the county court of Atchison County for two years, postmaster at Corning in 1878, and mayor of the city of Tarkio. He was a Republican and a Methodist, and held the post of treasurer of the Spanish American Institute, Gardenia, and was also commander of Grand Army Post No. 199, at Watts, California. Mr. Casler is survived by his daughter, Emma W. Casler, who resides at 4041 La Salle Avenue, Los Angeles.

FOOTE, Charles Whittlesey, elec. engr. (deceased 1922); b. Tripoli, Syria, Jan. 21, 1853; s. Horace and Rosanna (Whittlesey) F.; ed. Tallmadge (O.) Acad.; grad. Western Res. Coll., 1874; A.M., Cornell U., 1876, Ph.D., 1877; m. Harriet Mason Hosford, of Hudson, O., Aug. 30, 1879; children — Frances Rosanna, Charles Raymond, Robert Hosford (dec.), Harriet Ruth (Mrs. C. H. Gaskell), Helen Marjorie (Mrs. Elihu E. Suits). Upon completing his university studies, Mr. Foote read law privately, and practiced law in Akron, Ohio, and in southern Ohio for about ten years. He then entered the field of electrical engineering, and located in Cleveland, Ohio, where he held the agency for the Sprange Electric Company and also for Thompson, Houston & Cox for some time. Following that he was associated with the Cleveland Construction Company, a firm engaged in electric railway planning and building. He was a director of that company, and later was active on the board of management in the organization of several railroad corporations. In 1894 his health compelled him to come to California, where his later years were spent as secretary of the Citrus Protective League of California, and in the Federal Income Tax division of the United States Government in Los Angeles. Mr. Foote was a Republican and an adherent of the Protestant faith, and was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor society and the Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is survived by a son and three daughters and by his widow, Mrs. Harriet H. Foote, who resides at 4842 Malta Street, Los Angeles.

Jesuit Coll., St. Boniface, Manitoba; m. Ida Odile Henry, of Pembina, N.D., May 28, 1894; children—Henry Jacques, Hector Horace (dec.), Florentine Marie, Ambrose Michael, Nestor Edward, Blanche Adelaide. Mr. Parent engaged in the implement business in Manitoba, and also operated a lumber yard. Later he devoted much of his interest to assisting farmers in their financial obligations to the mortgage companies, aiding them both by individual financial help and by taking over their mortgages. He was a member of the Provincial Parliament of Manitoba, and, having served his first term of four years, was re-elected for a second term, but died in the second year of that term, which was under the leadership of Premier Norris. In addition to his legislative work, Mr. Parent was a director of the Manitoba Agricultural College, and also held the office of land inspector, being instrumental in securing the services each year of a professor from the Agricultural College to give lectures to the farmers regarding advanced methods of farming. He was also a member of the board of Manitoba University. During the World War Mr. Parent was actively engaged in organizing volunteers for service, and also devoted much time to the sale of war bonds. In his political affiliations he was a Conservative, and in his religious views gave his support to the Roman Catholic Church, being also a member of the Knights of Columbus. In addition to five children he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida O. Parent, who is an artist and resides at 1843 Cherokee St., Hollywood.

MASON, Dean, banker (deceased 1928); b. N.Y. State, Nov. 27, 1863; s. George and Harriet (Brownell) M.; ed. pub. schs., N.Y. State; m. Mary Lyman Strong, of Los Angeles, Jan. 14, 1893. Prior to moving to California in 1890, Mr. Mason was secretary of Mason's Bank in Dakota, and following his arrival here he became associated with the California Bank, Los Angeles. He was interested in the development of the natural resources of the State, and as secretary and treasurer of the Pokegama Sugar Pine Lumber Company, Siskiyou County, had a personal interest in the lumber industry. Mr. Mason was also interested in the development of telephone service in southern California, and was secretary and treasurer of the Santa Monica Bay Telephone Company. While retired from active business for some time before his demise, he was a director of the Mason Company of Los Angeles, owners of the Corporation Building, South Spring Street. His part in the civic life of Los Angeles was fully exemplified by his share in the development of the Exposition Park Museum Founders' Association, of which he was secretary and treasurer, and he was one of the founders of the Botanic Gardens of Los Angeles. As a patron of music and art he did much to further the artistic life of southern California. He was an adherent of the Republican party and a member of the Episcopal Church, and was also a member of the California, Midwick Country, Los Angeles Country, Crags Country and Beach clubs of Los Angeles, and a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Mason was also a member of the Bohemian Club of San Francisco. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary L. Mason, who is a prominent club woman of Los Angeles, and resides at 340 South Lafayette Park Place, Los Angeles.

Having worked his way through school, Mr. Ellis entered business in his home town and soon turned his attention to banking. He was advancing rapidly on the staff of the James River National Bank when poor health forced him to move to Colorado Springs, where he spent a year, later moving to Silver City, New Mexico, where he organized the Union Savings Bank in 1911. This bank was later absorbed by the Silver City National Bank. He was also interested with a number of friends of his Jamestown days in the investment concern operated under the firm name of the Trimble-Ellis Company, and was a director of the Union Exchange Bank and the First National Bank, both of Silver City. His next business venture was in association with a group of Silver City and Jamestown friends in the development of the Piggly Wiggly Western States Company, of which he was vice-president and general manager, with headquarters in Los Angeles. He entered the highly competitive field of the retail grocery business in southern California, and brought success to the undertaking; but his health again failed him, and he found it necessary to withdraw from business and return to New Mexico, where he spent his remaining days in Silver City and Albuquerque. Mr. Ellis was a Republican and a Methodist and a member of the Elks Club at Silver City. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ida B. Ellis, who resides at 354 South Commonwealth Avenue, Los Angeles.

C. Sweetser), William Henry, Karolyn Elizabeth. Shortly after his entrance into the U.S. Treasury Department in 1868, Mr. Greene was made chief of the division of banking and law, and acquired, during his years of service from 1868 to 1886, high recognition as an authority on monetary matters from such leaders as Hugh McCullough, John Jay Knox and Henry W. Cannon. When the American Bankers' Association was formed in 1886 the organization called upon Mr. Greene to be its first manager and secretary. His material in the Bankers' Magazine was quoted throughout the English-speaking world and his suggestion for a Bankers' Bank while financial editor of the Banking Law Journal antedated the Federal Reserve System by nearly a generation. He withdrew from public life in 1893 to cultivate his farm in Lorain County on the shores of Lake Erie, where he soon attracted attention as a grape grower. The last twenty years of his life were occupied with farming and with writing on monetary subjects, and he was called upon to complete The History of Banking, which had been begun by John Jay Knox. Mr. Greene was a Republican, a Presbyterian and a member of the Masonic Order and the Kappa Kappa Kappa fraternity. He is survived by his three children and by his widow, Mrs. Caroline Elizabeth Greene, who resides at 234 North Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles.

Mr. Harris' father was one of the largest wagon manufacturers in New Jersey, and is now living in retirement with his wife. From him Mr. Harris inherited an aptitude for constructive business which he applied to advantage after his arrival in California in 1900. He began his active career as a salesman of heating appliances, and continued in the same field of work for some time after his arrival on the Pacific coast, finally founding his own business in association with his wife. This establishment is the Pacific Gas Appliance Company, opened in 1911 and now managed by Mrs. Harris. In addition to the routine appliances used in the trade, Mr. Harris manufactured and sold his own line of furnaces known as the Harris gas furnaces. He was a director of the Furnace Dealers' Association and also of the Gas Appliance Society, and in addition was a member of a number of service clubs. In politics he was a Democrat, and he was affiliated with the Masonic Order, being, in addition to his membership in Bay View Lodge, a member of the Scottish Rite and of the Order of the Mystic Shrine, all of Oakland. Mr. Harris was a Methodist and a lover of all out-of-doors pursuits. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lavinia Harris, who, in addition to the management of her own business, the Pacific Gas Appliance Company, is identified with many branches of the commercial life of Oakland, and resides at 431 Lee Street, Oakland.

Harvard U., 1901; m. Gertrude Aiken, of San Francisco, Oct. 2, 1919. Mr. Endicott, who was a direct descendant of John Endicott, governor of Massachusetts Bay Colony, entered the paper business immediately after his graduation from Harvard. His first association in the line of work that he followed throughout his life was with the Ticonderoga Pulp and Paper Company, and after a period in their mills he was promoted to the New York office of the company. Later he severed this connection to become assistant manager of the Imperial Paper Company, Ontario, and subsequent to 1910 transferred his activities to the Northwest, where he was vice-president, director and manager of the Mutual Paper Company, Seattle, and also president and director of the Endicott Paper Company of Portland, Oregon, which positions he occupied at the time of his demise. Mr. Endicott was a frequent visitor to California following his advent on the Pacific Coast in 1912. He was a devotee of outdoor sports, and was a member of the University clubs of Seattle, Washington, and Portland. Laurence Endicott is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Endicott, who was active in musical circles in San Francisco prior to her marriage, and now resides at 137 South Berendo Street, Los Angeles.

Mr. Hatch was sampler at the customs house, San Francisco, for thirteen years, and on January 18, 1904, he was transferred to Los Angeles, where he was senior examiner until the time of his demise on May 29, 1916. In official circles he was known as "the man who saves Uncle Sam thousands." At appraising imports and exports he was an expert in an exceptional number of lines. As a student of all Oriental art, especially Chinese, he was invaluable to the customs service, and Government officials declared at the time of Mr. Hatch's death that the customs service had lost one of its most valuable men. His last official work was the appraisal of the exhibits at the San Diego Exposition, undertaken in April, 1916. In his fraternal affiliations he was a Mason, being a member of Sunset lodge, Los Angeles, and in politics he was an adherent of the Republican party. Mr. Hatch is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Emily Hatch, who is a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Berkeley, and resides at 2718 Regent Street, Berkeley.
